BOMB WAS CAUSE OF VOLTURNO DISASTER

Threat to Burn Vessel of Uranium Line Received
Just Before Fatal Voyage Commenced. Disaster Due to Bitter Fight Between Companies for Immigrant Trade

Liverpool, Oct. 14.—The owners of the Uranium line believe the terrible disaster to the Volturno was the result of a deliberately planned plot to destroy the vessel, as a direct result of a bitter fight between the German and Dutch immigrant-carrying lines to put the Uranium line out of business. Captain Tinsley, of the Royal Naval Reserve, who three years ago was assistant superintendent of the Cunard line but left the Cunard line after a dispute, and became manager of the Uranium line, has noticed for the last year an increasing bitterness and a rapidly growing frequency of disputes of the company with its steamers and dock laborers.

Threatening Letters Received.
Captain Tinsley has been working for several months to clean all the Dutch and Belgians out of the service. He has lately received many threatening letters. One just before the Volturno sailed said: "If you don't listen to our demands, one of your boats will be burned."

The Dutch and Belgian sailors showed signs of discontent and made trouble before the Volturno sailed, but no notice was taken of the letter.

Captain Tinsley and the owners now believe that a bomb placed in the hold caused the explosion and fire, and the destruction of the ship and attending loss of life.

The Uranium vessels sail from Dutch ports and are strong competitors for the Dutch and German immigrant trade. The Uranium business has increased so rapidly that German officials have ordered their immigrants not to use that line and Captain Tinsley believes that the labor disputes were instigated by business rivals, who have taken advantage of the fact that the Uranium ships are manned by Dutch and Belgian sailors and officers by British.

La Touraine Rocks.

Hayre, Oct. 14.—La Touraine, of the French line, second of the rescue ships which figured in the Volturno disaster to reach port, arrived at Hayre this morning. La Touraine had forty-two survivors on board.

On the forward deck of La Touraine when she arrived at the quay was a group of eight children from three to twelve years old, who had been rescued from the Volturno and whose parents had perished or were aboard other rescuing steamers.

Devonian Has Fifty.
Liverpool, Oct. 14.—The Leyland liner Devonian, commanded by Captain Trant, arrived here to-day, bringing fifty Volturno survivors.

CARMANIA'S CAPTAIN TELLS OF RESCUE; DIRECTED SHIPS WHICH ANSWERED CALLS

One Against Many Captain
Inch Acted Very Bravely, Says Barr

Liverpool, Oct. 13.—The Carmania anchored in the Mersey at 1 o'clock this morning. The captain received the newspapermen and in a business-like manner recounted his story to them.

He said that when he reached the Volturno he could see that she was in desperate straits. Her propeller was continually emerging from the water and the davit gear was hanging over the vessel's side. Although it was an almost hopeless thing to do he felt he must try to lower a boat.

"I tried one, he said. 'I might have tried four. Our men were all quite keen to go out. I was glad afterward that I did not, but it was only the splendid seamanship of the men in charge that enabled us to get our boat and crew aboard again.'"

Called on to Return.
Captain Barr proceeded to describe how he went in search of the missing boats after the captain of the Volturno had asked him not to go too far, and the Seydlitz had agreed to stand by. But before he had proceeded ten miles an urgent message from the Volturno begged him to return. He then consulted with the navigating officers and acted on the suggestion of the chief to drop some lifeboats.

Captain Barr then relates how two boats, one of them from the Minneapolis smashed against the side of the Carmania in trying to get alongside about 4.30 o'clock in the morning. Their crews were saved, but the Carmania lost her position in the manoeuvre.

Captain Barr here remarked that doubtless the point would arise why the Carmania, though arriving first on the scene, only rescued one person.

Did All He Could.
"I give you my narrative in detail," he said, "in order to show you how I was employed during the night. I do not think I could have done more."

In answer to questions, Captain Barr said he was obviously in a position to direct other vessels and considered it better to direct them than to rush with the object of saving the passengers. He had heard from a boatman who had got near the Volturno that the people crowded on the ship were quiet, as though a terror was upon them.

"I think, under the circumstances," concluded Captain Barr, "that Captain Inch acted very bravely, considering he was one against so many terror-stricken people."

According to Captain Trant, of the Devonian, there was some attempt on the part of the male passengers of the Volturno to rush to the rescuing boats when they reached the vessel's side, and the captain and officers of the Volturno did good work in keeping them under control.

Screams Were Heard.

When the Devonian departed from the scene, Captain Trant says the fire on the Volturno was making progress toward the after part of the vessel. Captain Trant said the pitiful screams for help uttered by passengers of the Volturno made the night hideous to the would-be rescuers, who were unable to reach them.

The first survivor to reach the Devonian was a man who had jumped into the boiling sea and had managed to get near the liner. He was taken out of the water unconscious. As soon as it was possible for the Devonian to launch boats and proceed to the Volturno the women and children were removed first. They were swung along in coal baskets and lowered to the boats.

Crew Behaved Bravely.

London, Oct. 14.—The crew of the Volturno, most of whom were Dutch, behaved in a cowardly manner and were brutal to the passengers, "is the verdict of most of the thirty survivors of the Volturno who arrived at Gravesend on board the Minneapolis this evening.

CANAL GOVERNMENT REMAINS THE SAME

No Change Until After Commerce on Waterway is in Effect

ISTHMIAN COMMISSION TO REMAIN IN CHARGE

Plan for Ruling Zone Now Prepared but Not to Be Operative Yet

PRESIDENT PAYS THE BUILDERS COMPLIMENT

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14.—Until the commerce of the world is actually flowing smoothly through the Panama Canal no change in either the operation of the big ditch or in the government of the canal zone will be made. This became known to-day.

It developed also, that through this decision President Wilson planned to pay a delicate compliment to the men who have accomplished the herculean task of joining the oceans by giving them the opportunity of enjoying the fruition of their labors. Congress has provided for a civil government for the zone, but for the time being its control will be left to the Isthmian Canal Commission and the army engineers.

Plans for the ultimate government of the zone and the operation of the canal have not been overlooked by the administration, however. Secretary Garrison and Col. George W. Goethals, the genius of the canal, have formulated a plan of government and operative administration. The secretary of Col. Goethals, however, expresses the belief that there is no imperative necessity to put the operation of the canal into civilian hands as soon as it is open to traffic, an opinion which President Wilson shares.

So long as arrangements are made for the collection of tolls, mechanical operation of the canal and for other necessary details of management, they failed to see any imperative need for settling the proposed permanent government.

The canal commission has ample authority to proceed with the operation of the waterway and in the opinion of Secretary Garrison it will be intelligently done by the present administration of the zone.

SPENCER NOW TELLS OF CASHING MANY CHEQUES

Confessed Murderer Claims to Have Killed Negro and Committed Robberies.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Henry Spencer, who has confessed a score of murders, added to-day the admission of another killing to his long list of crimes and declared that he had obtained large sums on forged cheques in Chicago, St. Louis and other cities. Spencer was asked if he had ever killed a negro. He replied: "Yes, I banged one on the head with a hammer in an alley back of a saloon at South State and West Polk streets a couple of years ago."

The prisoner told the police that in robbing a house he always looked for a bank or cheque book as he regarded them as valuable assets in his line of business.

"I used to cash a lot of cheques," he said. "I would go into the best store in town, make a small purchase and give one of the cheques in payment and pocket the change. I cashed a lot of these cheques in Chicago, St. Louis and other cities."

WOMAN ON TRIAL FOR MURDER OF HUSBAND

Plymouth, Mass., Oct. 14.—Mrs. Jennie May Eaton was placed on trial here to-day, charged with the murder of her husband, Rear-Admiral Joseph Giles Eaton. The defence will attempt to show that the poison which caused the death of the admiral was self-administered. The government's case rests on the contention that Mrs. Eaton gave her husband poison with his meals.

As soon as court was formally opened the work of empanelling the jury was begun. Three of the 150 veniremen failed to answer the roll call.

Board of Trade, and the second place was awarded to the Kootenay Association, B. C. Board of Trade. Judging of apples had not been completed at 9 o'clock this afternoon, there being about 105 different samples of fruit to be gone over.

SEND GERMAN SHIP TO MEXICAN WATERS

Subject Occupies Attention of United States Cabinet Meeting

THREE BATTLESHIP PLAN
CONSIDERATION TO WAIT

Mexican Affairs Overshadow
Other Business in Its Importance

HUERTA'S DECREE IS VERY INTERESTING

Berlin, Oct. 14.—The foreign office here reached the conclusion this afternoon that the existing situation in Mexico is such as to necessitate the presence of a German warship in Mexican waters.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14.—President Wilson and his entire cabinet discussed the Mexican situation and the naval policy of the United States to-day at the first cabinet meeting since last June.

While the first object of the cabinet meeting had been to take up a three-battle-ship plan to put the United States back in the place it occupied among naval powers before the last congress cut the plans to one ship, the dispatch of a German warship to Mexican waters and the possibility of like action by other European nations, which may foresee a crisis for the Huerta government, commanded first attention.

Advices from Mexico City indicated that the Mexican deputies for whose safety the American government had made representations, were still in jail, but according to Huerta, in no danger.

President Wilson and Secretary Daniels are both said to be in favor of a three-battle-ship plan for this year's naval appropriation bill and a two-battle-ship programme thereafter.

The Mexican situation took up so much time at the cabinet meeting that the naval programme was not reached for discussion and it was agreed that President Wilson would take the subject up with each member individually.

None of the secretaries would comment on Huerta's decree assuming the powers of government, further than to characterize it as "very interesting."

MALANUSKA CLAIMS
BONDED FOR $250,000

Stampede in Progress as Find is Reported on With Much Favor.

Seward, Alaska, Oct. 14.—William Martin, an attorney of Seattle and now a mining operator in the Willow Creek district, has bonded Albert Creek in the new Malanuska goldfields, for $250,000. Mr. A. Ellis, a mining engineer of the Cache district, has bonded six claims on Crooked Creek and both men plan extensive operations in the new gold fields.

Mr. Martin and Mr. Ellis are passengers on the steamship Admiral Sampson which left Sunday for Seattle. While outside they will buy thawers and equipment to carry on operations this winter.

There has not been a single unfavorable report concerning the new diggings. Albert Drees, who arrived here yesterday, says the camp has great possibilities. A large area is still open to location.

A stampede from Kilt and surrounding sections is in progress. Duncan McCormick, one of the original locators, has sent word to James Robinson, an old timer now at Seward, to drop everything and come immediately.

DOES NOT BELIEVE IN NEW LAND DISCOVERY

Juneau, Alaska, Oct. 14.—Captain Otto Sverdrup, the former Arctic explorer, who was master of Nansen's ship when Nansen went north in 1893, believes that the story of the discovery of a new continent north of Asia is impossible.

"Nansen drifted over the area and found nothing but water," said Captain Sverdrup, who now is engaged in the whaling industry.

"It is possible that the Russian explorers may have found a small island or two there, but any extensive land would have been known long ago."

J. T. Davidson and scientists agree with Captain Sverdrup.

Altoona, Pa., Oct. 14.—A man who gave John D. Rockefeller a bed when he had none, loaned him $20 when the gates of prison yawned for him for defaulting in the payment of a board bill, is now an inmate of Blair county almshouse. He is Daniel J. Clark, once a prosperous oil prospector.

HUERTA'S PROCLAMATION MADE PUBLIC; SUSPENDS CONSTITUTIONAL PROVISIONS; SEND EARLY REPLY TO AMERICAN NOTE

Dictator Will Make Decrees and Under Article Three Will Render Account of Actions to Legislative Power When Formed

United States Note Regarded as Intemperate and Marks New Epoch in Diplomatic Relations Says Mexican Foreign Minister

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14.—Copies of a proclamation by Provisional President Huerta announcing himself as dictator over Mexico was received to-day at the state department and considered at the cabinet meeting at the White House.

Huerta declared suspended that provision of the constitution which grants immunity from arrest to members of the Mexican congress and announces that he will from time to time issue executive decrees because of the dissolution of congress.

"In view of the fact that the chamber of deputies and senators of the congress of the union have been dissolved and inhibited to perform their functions, and in view of the powers which hold in the department of governance, according to the decree of October 11, this year, I have seen fit to decree that articles one, the constitutional exemption from arrest and judicial action, which the citizens which form the twenty-sixth congress of the union enjoyed in view of their functions, is hereby repealed and consequently they are subject to the jurisdiction of the tribunals corresponding to the case in the event that they are guilty of any crime or offense."

Victoriano Huerta assumes further, more the departments of governance, finance and war only for the time absolutely necessary for the re-establishment of legislative power.

"In the meantime the executive takes on himself the powers granted by the constitution in the aforementioned departments and will make use of them by issuing decrees which shall be observed generally and which he may deem expedient for the public welfare."

"Article 3, the executive of the Union, will render an accounting to the legislative power of the use which he makes of the powers which he assumes by means of this decree as soon as this is in function." (Signed) "Victoriano Huerta."

Mexico City, Oct. 14.—An early answer will be made by the Mexican government to the communication from Washington stating that the United States would look with displeasure on any injury to the Mexican deputies under arrest, according to day to Nelson O'Shaughnessy, American charge d'affaires.

Neither Mr. O'Shaughnessy nor Foreign Minister Moseno would discuss the terms of the note, but Senator Moseno described it as "intemperate."

At the conclusion of the cabinet meeting Senator Moseno admitted the receipt of the communication, saying: "This incident marks a new epoch in our diplomatic relations with the United States. The conduct of the American charge d'affaires has been courteous and he was not responsible for the intemperate language of his government."

A further conference of ministers was held to-day to discuss the nature of the Mexican reply.

FASHIONABLE WEDDING AT BALTIMORE TO-DAY

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 14.—Charles Frick, son of Henry C. Frick of Pittsburgh and New York, and Miss Frances Shoemaker Dixon, daughter of the late Isaac H. Dixon of Baltimore, were married at Old St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal church here to-day in the presence of a fashionable assemblage of guests from New York, Boston, Pittsburgh and Baltimore.

Miss Helen C. Frick, sister of the groom, was maid of honor and Howard Phelps of New York, attended Mr. Frick as best man.

WESTERN FUEL MINE SHIPPING COAL AGAIN

Bunker Coal for Steamer is First Shipped Since Lock-out in May.

Nanaimo, Oct. 14.—For the first time since the strike was called here in May last, coal was shipped yesterday by the Western Fuel Company. At the time the strike was called the company had a contract to supply a local steamship company with bunker coal for its steamers. The latter company has got along as well as it could under strike conditions but recently came to the decision that unless it could be supplied with coal it would convert its boats into oil-burners.

During the life of the agreement the Western Fuel had signed with its employees, the company made no attempt to fill contracts from local mines. Now that the agreement has expired the management has decided to fill what orders it can and the Manhattan, one of the steamers of the steamship company referred to above, was bunkered yesterday with 200 tons of No. 1 coal.

COMPANIES DECISION IN FAVOR OF PROVINCES

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 14.—Judgment has been given by the Supreme court in the companies case involving the right of the Dominion and Provincial governments in respect to the incorporation of joint stock companies. The finding of the court has not yet been made public, but it is understood that Chief Justice Fitzpatrick and Judge Davis favor the contention of the Dominion government, while Judges Brodeur and Anglin, Duff and Idington, favor the provinces.

The judgment means that the provinces will continue to have the right to incorporate companies to do business all over Canada.

There is a similar judgment in the reference respecting the insurance case, as to what power provincially incorporated companies have to issue policies all over Canada. The right to do so is upheld in a similar division. It is quite likely that the case will be appealed to the Privy Council.

FOUR HUNDRED DEAD IN MINE EXPLOSION

Workings of Welsh Colliery
Shattered When 931 Men
Are Below

RESCUE PARTIES ARE FORMED VERY QUICKLY

Men Huddled Together in Groups Seeking Breaths of Pure Air

FIVE HUNDRED ARE RESCUED UP TO NOON

Cardiff, Wales, Oct. 14.—More than 400 Welsh coal miners perished, it is believed from fire and afterdamp, in the Universal colliery near here to-day. A terrific explosion shattered the workings shortly after 931 men had descended into the pit.

The day shift of 931 men descended the shafts in the cages at 5 o'clock. An hour afterward a deafening report brought the inhabitants in the vicinity of the mine running to the pithead, where they found the ventilating and hoisting machinery had been blown to atoms. A man who had been working 60 feet away had been decapitated by the force of the blast.

Rescue parties of miners belonging to the night shift were soon on the scene making preparations to enter the mine in an endeavor to save their comrades.

An entrance was found by way of an adjacent shaft. On descending the rescuing parties came across several groups of men huddled together in portions of the mine where the air was still good. By noon they had picked up and brought to the surface altogether $90.

The same pit was the scene of an explosion thirteen years ago when 129 miners lost their lives. Only one of those below at that time was rescued alive.

Scenes of terror in the vicinity and at the pit mouth were indescribable. Fearing disaster when the terrific explosion awoke the still sleeping population, the inhabitants of the residential area of the district were immediately thrown into a state of panic.

Remembrance of the previous disaster when but one miner came alive from the underground prison, brought to the women and other relatives residing near the Universal collieries visions of dread fatalities. Women wringing their hands and weeping in fear that their breadwinners had been killed, ran to the mine-head scantily clothed. They stood at the pit mouth already prepared to hear the worst.

Many were the joyous reunions that took place as the 500 men rescued were brought above the ground. Others above are in a state of fearful expectation for the fate of those who are still below.

For miles around there is evidence of destruction caused by the explosion. Houses are wrecked, larger buildings damaged, and of the upper workings of the mine there remain but a few fragments to mark where a few hours previously stood substantial buildings.

Rescue work is continuing. The night shift of men who went to work immediately has been reinforced hourly by others who have been rescued, and by persons living in the affected district.

The one object of all for the present is to save the lives of those confined below ground.

All the men in the east side of the mine reached the surface by 4 o'clock, but 418 were still in the workings in the west side which were on fire. Colonel Pearson, chief inspector of mines, in giving this information to the press late this afternoon, added: "The fire is in the intake airway and everything is being done to cope with it. We are hoping to the last."

NOVEMBER SESSION OF PARLIAMENT IS NOW
IMPROBABLE ACCORDING TO OTTAWA PRESS

Ottawa, Oct. 14.—Speculation is still rife at the capital as to the probable date of the opening of parliament, the chances would appear to be about six to one in favor of a January opening despite the local pressure in favor of a November session.

The Evening Citizen (Conservative) says: "The opinion has been expressed that in view of the government's victory in Chateaugay the session of parliament may be called next month."

Inquiry to-day in high circles, however, elicited the reply that this is very improbable. The cabinet as yet has never finally decided the matter, but in the case of a November session it

COAST TO MONTREAL ON C.N.R. IN AUGUST

Vice-President of Railway Company Announces Time for Opening of Line

Edmonton, Alta., Oct. 14.—"By June next, the Canadian Northern will run through trains between Toronto and Edmonton, and by August through trains will commence running from Montreal to the Pacific Coast via Edmonton, over the C.N.R."

This announcement is made here by Sir Donald Mann, vice-president of the C.N.R., on his trip through the West. Sir Donald said that the line connecting Sudbury and Port Arthur would be finished by December, and the two ends of steel on the main line between Edmonton and the Pacific Coast will be connected about the middle of next summer.

About 1,000 miles of new track are being laid by the Canadian Northern this year, and by the time the line from Montreal to the Pacific Coast is opened, the Canadian Northern will be operating 10,500 miles of railway in the Dominion.

"The crop throughout the West has been one of the best on record, and the C.N.R. is shipping over 400,000 bushels per day into Winnipeg, the number of cars averaging 300 per day," Sir Donald said. "Not so bad for a single track, either."

The vice-president had intended going on to the Coast, but has received word that he was required to go back East at once, and he intends to make the trip to the Coast in about four weeks' time.

TORY NEWSPAPER FOR RECIPROCITY TREATY

Ottawa Citizen Makes Caustic References to Protectionists in Editorial

Ottawa, Oct. 14.—Cabinet ministers are threatening to read The Ottawa Citizen out of the party and to cut it off the patronage list. The Citizen, which has shown of late unmistakable signs of independent thought where the government's high tariff policy is concerned, has come out with a clear-cut reciprocity editorial apropos of the new American fiscal revolution, and with this editorial was coupled another advocating practically free trade with Great Britain.

In the leading editorial The Citizen says in part: "Tariff reform is now an accomplished fact in the United States. Time alone will show how effectively President Wilson has overthrown the entire blockade of special privilege in America. If not a rout, the Underwood bill is at least a reverse to the monopoly interests fattening behind the protective tariff."

"The new fiscal policy of President Wilson should have a noticeable effect on the next annual report of the Department of Trade and Commerce. Judging by recent comments a remarkable point of view would appear to prevail in Canada regarding imports and exports and the policy of protective tariffs."

"For every dollar's worth of grain taken from Canada there must be imported at least a dollar's worth of goods in exchange—more than a dollar's worth if the transaction is to be a profitable one for the Canadian producer. Yet there is an opinion being circulated freely through the press that the Underwood tariff will benefit the people of Canada, because it may be possible to send produce into the United States without granting any concessions, by reducing the customs tax in Canada."

The citizens of the Republic have decided to cease taxing themselves by a customs tariff every time they import foodstuffs. In return for Canadian foodstuffs they will send machinery, clothing, coal—whatever the people of Canada desire. The tariff will not be reduced in Canada. No concessions! What a triumph! Canadian citizens will continue to tax themselves as usual. Certainly the United States consumer will take more Canadian grain and farm produce. But Canadians, generous people, will refuse to import anything in return, at most will take as little as possible, and will insist upon paying a tariff toll every time an exchange is made."

WEDDING PRESENTS ARE VALUED AT $600,000

Royal Function Held in Connection With Approaching Marriage of Prince Arthur.

London, Oct. 14.—The King and Queen gave a party last night at St. James's Palace, in honor of Prince Arthur of Connaught and the Duchess of Fife, who are shortly to be married. Eight hundred guests were in attendance. The wedding presents were displayed, the most notable of which were a diamond tiara, the gift of the King and Queen, and a gold dessert set, the gift of the Princess Royal.

The party was the first held there in fifty years, the last being when King Edward and Queen Alexandra held their reception. This party replaces the state banquet. The wedding presents displayed in the Queen Anne room aggregate a value of £120,000.

Queen Alexandra, the King and Queen of Norway and Crown Prince of Norway have arrived in London from Copenhagen, to attend the wedding. They were welcomed at the Victoria Station by King George and Queen Mary, the Prince of Wales, Princess Victoria and Princess Mary.

FINED FIVE HUNDRED FOR SHOOTING FRIEND

Prince Albert, Sask., Oct. 14.—J. S. Flowie, who last week accidentally shot and killed C. M. Turner, both of Prince Albert, while on a shooting expedition, has been fined $500, his shooting license is cancelled and he is debarred from shooting for ten years by the Royal Northwest Mounted Police at this point. The tragedy occurred a few miles from the city when Flowie sitting on the back seat of a moving automobile shot at a rabbit. Turner, who was in the front seat, received the charge of the shotgun in the neck and head.

The conviction is under the new provincial law under which a person shooting another is made liable both to this fine and cancellation of his shooting privilege.

ENTIRE BLOCK SHAKEN BY EXPLOSION OF BOMB

New York, Oct. 14.—Despite the recent round-up of Italians suspected of being responsible for most of the bomb outrages committed in New York, the East Side was disturbed yesterday by one of the most terrific bomb explosions in years. An entire block was shaken and every pane of glass throughout the block was shattered. The grocery store of Candelio Gatto was wrecked. No one was injured. Gatto had received several Black Hand letters recently. Two hundred and fifty persons were driven from their homes by the explosions.

WHEAT ESTIMATE IS MORE THAN IN 1912

Figures to September 30 Account for Harvest of 188,488,000

Ottawa, Oct. 14.—A bulletin issued by the census and statistic office of the Department of Trade and Commerce gives an estimate of the yield of the principal grain crops and also the average quality of these crops at harvest time.

During the month ended September 30, ideal weather for the gathering of the crops prevailed all over Canada. In the greater part of Ontario and in the Western Provinces harvesting operations were well completed by the end of September, and only in parts of Quebec and the Maritime Provinces, where the spring opens later, was harvesting carried on during the latter end of the month. The estimates given a month ago are slightly greater than those now issued, which may be presumed to be based more or less on the threshing.

The final estimates, based altogether on the threshing results, and calculated on corrected areas, will be issued as usual on December 15 for spring wheat. The estimate at the end of September is 188,488,000 bushels, as compared with 182,840,000 bushels last year. For the fall wheat, the estimate is 19,071,000, as against 16,396,000 bushels last year and 18,481,000 bushels in the preliminary estimates this year.

Total estimated wheat production this year is, therefore, 207,559,000 bushels, as compared with 199,236,000 bushels last year, an increase of 8,323,000 bushels, or 4.14 per cent.

The yield per acre for all wheat is 21.15 bushels, as compared with 20.42 bushels last year.

Oats show a total yield of 391,418,000 bushels, and an average yield of 40.57 bushels per acre, as compared with 361,725,000 bushels and an average yield of 39.25 bushels.

Barley gives an estimated total yield of 44,348,000 bushels, an average of 31 bushels per acre, as compared with 44,014,000 bushels and an average of 31.10 bushels in 1912. For this year the total production of rye is 2,559,000 bushels; peas, 974,000 bushels; buckwheat, 7,600,000 bushels; flax, 14,912,000 bushels; mixed grain, 17,178,000 bushels; corn for husking 14,086,000; beans, 392,500 bushels, as compared with a total yield last year: For rye, 2,594,000 bushels; peas, 3,773,500; buckwheat, 10,193,000; flax, 21,681,500; mixed grains, 17,562,000; corn for husking, 16,569,800; beans, 10,480,000.

For the three Northwest Provinces, the total yield of spring wheat is estimated at 33,522,000 bushels—fall wheat, 5,324,000 bushels; oats, 229,550,000; barley, 27,904,000; rye, 684,000; flax, 14,908,000 bushels.

The average quality of these crops measured up to a per cent. basis of 100 well filled, well saved and unaffected to any appreciable extent by frost, rust, smut, etc., represented therein as follows: Spring wheat, 95.31; oats, 90.52; barley, 88.25; rye, 85.41; peas, 81.71; beans, 78.45; buckwheat, 73.49; mixed grains, 90.54; flax, 82.56; corn for husking, 75.16. Of these, wheat, oats, barley and rye are above the average quality of the last two years.

The potato and root crop show good figures as representing average condition during growth. The condition of potatoes was 83.59; turnips, 82.62; sugar beets, 82.63.

RUSSIAN COURT SITS FOR SESSION IN CAVE

Trial of Priest Takes Officials Over Scenes Connected With Alleged Murder.

Kiev, Russia, Oct. 14.—The entire court engaged in the trial of Mendel Beiliss, a Jewish priest, for the murder of the boy Yushinsky in 1910 was transferred temporarily yesterday to the cave in which the boy's body was found. Judges, jury and counsel were driven to the brickyard where he was employed and in the vicinity of which the boy was discovered.

The greater part of the afternoon was occupied in visiting all the scenes having connection with the alleged murder. The procession included the whole court, judges, counsel and jury, as well as the prisoner and witnesses. There were twenty-five carriages and automobiles.

Various points have to be reached on foot and it was trying work, as the district is very hilly. At the Tcherbiak house, the brick works and at the cave informal sittings of the court were held for the purpose of verifying statements made at the magisterial examinations.

When the cave was reached the mist was falling and camps were needed. It was a grim scene, with armed police posted all round.

STORM DEATH TOLL IS FAR FROM COMPLETE

Nome, Alaska, Oct. 14.—Reports from up and down the coast indicate that the toll of death in the recent storm is as yet far from complete. Wrecks, it was said, are scattered along the beach for many miles, and arrivals from the Siberian coast tell of several vessels lost there. The craft were small, but the total of their crews may run into the dozens.

ROYAL WEDDING IS NOTED BY MILITANTS

Police Lose Prisoner by Disturbance Created After Miss Pankhurst's Arrest

London, Oct. 14.—After a fierce struggle, the police arrested Miss Sylvia Pankhurst in the east end of London last night, where she was making a speech. When they led her outside the building to take her to Holloway jail, the militants attacked the police so savagely that they had to let her go, and she escaped.

Miss Pankhurst, who has an uncompleted term of imprisonment to serve, was not recognized until she threw aside the disguise which enabled her to elude the police and enter the building. She was warmly applauded as she stepped on the platform, but had been speaking only a few minutes when detectives, accompanied by a body of uniformed police, with drawn truncheons, entered the hall and made a rush for the platform. The audience arose and chairs began to fly. The police gained the platform, and for ten minutes a desperate fight was waged.

Outside, the struggle was renewed with greater fury. Centering the attack on those who had the militant leader in their grasp, the suffragettes, with the assistance of several men, succeeded in releasing her, and she slipped away.

Every effort will be made to call attention of the notables at the royal wedding on Wednesday to the tortures which women of England have suffered for the enfranchisement of their sex.

In these words the women militants at a meeting yesterday promised to take advantage of the wedding of Prince Arthur and the Duchess of Fife "for the good of the cause."

Miss Annie Kenney, one of the noted leaders of the militants, who has been on hunger strike since her arrest October 4, was released last night after threats had been made at a meeting of militants in the afternoon that if she were not freed the militants would bombard the home office and camp on Right Hon. Reginald McKenna's front steps until they could find some way of getting at him.

Miss Kenney was released from prison after a hunger strike two months ago. She was undergoing a term of 15 months in prison for conspiracy, having been sentenced on June 17.

AUSTRALIAN DEFENCE WILL BE CONTINUED

Prime Minister Will Not Allow Party Politics to Obscure Pacific Patrol.

Melbourne, Oct. 14.—That the reports to the effect that the imperial defence conference has been abandoned have been manufactured for party purposes in view of the strained condition of politics in England is the opinion held by Hon. Joseph Cook, Australian prime minister. Mr. Cook has received no official notification of the abandonment of the conference, and is inclined to regard the cable reports as being not free from suspicion. "Australia," he says, "does not favor the suggestion that individual dominion ministers should interview the defence committee, the heads of the admiralty and the war office. The value of the conference would lie in the interchange of views between the representatives of the parties concerned."

Mr. Cook intimated that whatever was done Australia would go forward boldly with her defence schemes, hoping to do the right thing. The prime minister further stated that the question of the patrol of the Pacific should not be obscured by party politics.

MID-NORFOLK UNIONIST SURRENDERS HIS SEAT

London, Oct. 14.—W. L. Boyle, Unionist M. P. for Mid Norfolk since 1910, who has many Canadian interests, has resigned his seat owing to losses in the Cuban ocean port scheme. In 1910 Mr. Boyle carried out the Unionist. It had been Liberal for ten years. His majority was 453, but at the last election this was decreased to 37.

Mr. Boyle was born in 1853, at the Cape, where his father at that time held an appointment in the diplomatic service. He spent some years in British Columbia before taking up his residence in England, and has lived in Norfolk for some years.

CARMANIA'S STORY OF VOLTURNO FIRE

Hundred of Tons of Oil Poured on Waves From Steamer Narragansett

Finguard, Oct. 14.—When it became evident that the flames had gained the mastery, Capt. Francis Inch devoted all his energy to the salvation of his passengers. The Carmania's bulletins say that six small boats were launched from the Volturno, that two of them with 35 persons each on board got away and that the others were smashed against the ship's side and all their occupants perished.

After the failure of the lifeboats from the Carmania to reach the burning ship and when Captain Barr manoeuvred his vessel close to the Volturno, the passengers on the Cunarder did everything in their power to encourage the terrified crowd huddled in the after part of the Volturno. They waved handkerchiefs and shouted cheering words through megaphones, to which they received answering signals from the emigrants on the Volturno.

Balked in his attempts to establish communication between the Carmania and the Volturno, Captain Barr sent out broadcast wireless signals, which brought to the victims an international fleet to the succor of the doomed ship.

Late on Thursday afternoon Captain Barr made another attempt to reach the Volturno by throwing overboard life-rafts which he hoped might be secured by those on board, but this attempt also proved futile.

In the meantime the despairing messages from Captain Inch, of the Volturno, calling for succor grew more insistent as the flames ate their way through. Great clouds of smoke enveloped the ship.

At about 7 o'clock in the evening Captain Inch succeeded in lowering a boat in charge of the second officer of the Volturno, and a crew of four men with the intention of taking a line to the Grosz Kuruerst.

The small boat, after a desperate struggle reached the German liner's side only to be dashed to pieces. Its occupants managed to seize lines thrown out by the German sailors, and were thus saved. About 8.30 o'clock at night the sky was suddenly illuminated with a lurid glare as the flames burst through another part of the ship. Captain Inch then sent a last despairing appeal, and in twenty minutes there occurred a terrific explosion which to the helpless thousands of spectators on board the surrounding vessels seemed to seal the doom of those on the stricken ship.

After describing the rescue of the German, Walter Trintepohl, the only survivor taken on board the Carmania, the bulletin proceeds that the hope of saving any more of those on board the Volturno had been almost abandoned when the sea suddenly moderated and the fleet of rescuing ships was able to get away a number of life-boats and take off all the survivors.

"I will be up with the milk in the morning," was the cheerful reply radiographed by Commander Harwood of the Anglo-American oil steamer Narragansett to the Carmania's call for help. As soon as Captain Barr of the Cunard steamer realized the situation, he told the Marconi operator on board the Carmania to get in touch with the oil steamer as an abundant supply of oil seemed to be the only means of subduing the violence of the seas and facilitating the rescue operations. The Carmania quickly picked up the oil ship and received the hearty response quoted.

True to his word the skipper of the Narragansett brought his steamer on the scene early on Friday morning and immediately sluiced hundreds of tons of oil onto the waves.

Humphrey Jones, a passenger on the Carmania describing the scene at the wreck said the international fleet worked splendidly and with the regularity of a naval review. The Grosz Kuruerst, the Kroonland and the Csar did wonderfully.

"The spectacle of the burning ship in the middle of a ring of vessels impotent to help," he said, "was too terrible to describe. But for the subsidence of the storm all on board the Volturno must assuredly have been lost."

SPAIN MAY JOIN THE ALLIANCE OF POWERS

President Poincare's Efforts Practically Certain to Have Successful Result.

Paris, Oct. 14.—The policy of the Franco-Spanish rapprochement which President Poincare has sought ever since his advent at the Elysee, was crowned with success last week. His official visit to Madrid, accompanied by Foreign Minister Pichon, is practically certain to result in the long cherished entente with France. Such an event will be the most significant move on the European chess board in recent years. In fact, if M. Poincare has succeeded, as everybody here believes he has, in bringing Spain into the group, composed at present of France, Great Britain and Russia, political experts are convinced that a weakening influence of the triple alliance, led by Germany is imminent.

The Nationalist circles are exulting at the prospect thus created that M. Poincare is dealing a hard blow at the supremacy which Germany, Austria and Italy have long exercised in affairs and is making the quadruple entente of powers the predominant factor, not only in Europe but also in Africa and the near Far East.

It is confidently expected here that the most immediate results of M. Poincare's visit to Madrid will be the re-entry of Spain into the European family as a great naval power, the money for which will be provided by France and Great Britain.

THEFTS ARE TRACED TO GIRL AGED THIRTEEN

Hoquiam, Wash., Oct. 14.—Ten burglaries in Aberdeen have been traced by the police to a thirteen-year-old school-girl. After she had been caught pilfering from the pockets of other children an investigation was begun. In the house of Charles Sauers the child walked into the kitchen, told the maid she wanted a pair of scissors for Mrs. Sauers, and when she left took both the scissors and a purse. Among the homes entered and robbed are those of W. H. Tucker, J. B. Bridge, E. S. Miller and Charles Sauers.

COCKTAIL WAS FATAL

Bremerton, Wash., Oct. 14.—From drinking what is popularly known as a "Bushman's Sister" cocktail, a concoction of which hair tonic is the principal ingredient, and which he had mixed on board ship, Oscar Miller, 35 years old, a seaman on the U.S.S. Raleigh, died yesterday at the naval hospital after suffering agonies. Miller had been in the navy nearly four years, his enlistment expiring to-day.

KILLED IN ATTEMPT TO DESTROY HOUSE

Premature Explosion Brings Death to Father of Women Who Lived in House.

Spokane, Oct. 14.—While attempting to destroy the house in which his three daughters and other relatives lived, John N. Franklin was killed early today, his daughters sustained severe shock and the house was partially wrecked. The police said that Franklin was trying to place a charge of nitro-glycerine under the bedroom of his daughters and that the explosion must have been premature.

Franklin's clothes were torn from his body. His daughters, who lived with their grandmother, did not know that their father, a farmer of Chewelah, was in the city.

One of the daughters, May Franklin, recently obtained a court order for her father to pay her $250 from her mother's estate. The young woman's court action had embittered her father.

The six persons in the house were thrown from their beds. Mary Bergman, 5 years old, was cut by the debris.

SENTENCED TO DEATH.

Vancouver, Oct. 14.—Ola M. Jorgensen was yesterday convicted of the murder of James Inkster, aged 18, on the Lewis ranch near Clinton, B. C. He was sentenced to be hanged December 29. Jorgensen insisted that the shooting had occurred accidentally while he was cleaning his gun.

THE WISE COURSE.

In deciding to apply to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council for the institution of a judicial inquiry into municipal matters the mayor and aldermen are pursuing the proper course. Charges of attempted bribery in connection with civic contracts have been aired more or less freely in the council chamber, and obviously it is imperative in the interests of the members themselves as well as the city that they should be sifted to the bottom.

We trust the inquiry will be thorough and that it will result in the complete vindication of every member of the council. The promptness with which they have asked for the investigation is a gratifying circumstance which will tend to allay much of the suspicion recent disclosures may have created in the public mind.

PROTECTION AND HISTORY.

The economic theories of Dr. Young, our courteous correspondent, are interesting because of their far-fetched singularity. No high priest of protection in this day and generation is bold enough to erect the temple of his fiscal creed upon such extraordinary bases. The calm implication that it is a good thing for people that their food and clothing should be taxed; that the raw materials which are the lifeblood of their industries should be restricted; that competition should be stifled in order that the nation may survive, sounds like a melancholy echo from the days of the feudal regime. To justify the principle of protection by references to the days of the Tudors and the Stuarts is so fantastic that we can only attribute it to that peculiar Tory trend of mind which ignores altogether the fact that the world has moved in the last three centuries.

Recalling the England of those brave days when people were hanged, drawn, and quartered without trial; when religious sects were burning one another at the stake; when monarchs made war because of personal quarrels and the people paid the piper in blood and treasure at the whim of the ruling class, we can be pardoned, perhaps, if we decline to be convinced of the glories of protection by a reference to that by-gone epoch. We are impressed, too, with the unique psycho-economic theory which would credit the achievements of Shakespeare and Bacon, Drake and Raleigh, to the fact that England enjoyed a protective tariff. Even Bonar Law would not contend that the triumphs of those men, glittering the sombre background of their surroundings, owed their origin to anything so sordid as a fiscal policy.

Describing protection as a rampart against revolution, our correspondent becomes doubly entertaining. But what of the revolution of the courtly Essex in the days of Elizabeth, the uprising of the people of England against Charles Stuart, whom they decapitated? What of the mutterings and curses of the British people when Dutch cannon were heard in the Thames while the substance of the nation was squandered by a depraved monarch in his debaucheries? What of London rotten with the plague and of that insurrection which drove James Stuart from his throne? The doctor's panacea seems to have been sadly ineffective in those instances. May we refer our correspondent to the revolution which cost England half of this continent? Protection did not save it. On the contrary it was protection which accelerated it, for the Declaration of Independence specifically enumerates the imposition of unjust taxes and trade restrictions as one of the principle grievances of the colonists. Was the Boston tea party an expression of admiration for the beauty of the protective system?

But it is when the doctor attributes the French revolution to the establishment of free trade in France that he "certifies Pellon." He files in the face of every authority from Carlyle to Guizot, from Lamartine to the Encyclopaedia Britannica. Free trade was established in 1786, and three years later the revolution began; cause and effect, saith the doctor. This is nonsense. The seeds of the revolution were sown years before that time even while protection was flourishing. The billions wrung from the French people by Louis the Fourteenth for his numerous wars, debaucheries and extravagances; the decay of institutions inherited from the feudal period, and the consequent neglect and misery of the people, which became even worse in the reign of Louis the Fifteenth, finally caused that terrible conflagration which appalled the world.

Hear what Carlyle has to say of France when the fifteenth Louis died—fifteen years before the revolution and twelve years before free trade was established in France: "The debauchery and depravity of the nobles is, perhaps, unexampled since the era of Tiberius and Commodus. Such are the shepherds of the people; and now, how fares it with the flock? With the flock, as is inevitable, it fares ill and even worse. They are not tended; they are only regularly shorn. They are sent for, to do state labor, to pay state taxes; to fatten battlefields with their bodies in quarrels which are not theirs; their hand and toll in every possession of man; but for themselves they have little or no possession. Untaught, uncomfortable, unfed; to pine stigmatically in thick obscurity, in squalid destitution and obstruction—this is the lot of millions."

It was Louis XV, who cynically said: "After me the deluge," nearly twenty years before free trade was adopted. And yet the doctor says the people at that time were happy and contented! A few days ago the Right Honorable Herbert L. Samuel, who should be tolerably familiar with conditions in Britain, said in this city that his country was never so prosperous. Her trade was the greatest in history. There was less destitution and the general condition of the people was infinitely better than it had ever been. We can be pardoned if we accept the description of a distinguished British statesman who is in a position to know the facts. He no doubt would be amazed if he were told that the best way to make people happy and prosperous was to tax their food, clothing, the imported raw cotton which keeps the huge Lancashire industries going; the pig iron which is the life-blood of the big steel and shipbuilding enterprises. The United States has tried high protection and found it a curse. There are more Socialists in the German Reichstag than representatives of any other party. Here is how Deputy Suedekum described the situation last April: "Above 80 per cent. of Prussian citizens have only an income that just suffices for a hand-to-mouth existence, but with nothing left over for satisfying cultural demands. I have seen various budgets of the poor, and one shudders at the misery contained in them. Even industrious, skilled workmen must have recourse to poor aid, because they are not able to pay the high rent charges. Look at the reports of factory inspectors. Child labor has not decreased, and the working of women has increased to a frightful degree."

Of such is the kingdom of protection.

STILL AT IT.

Dr. Orville Owen, of Detroit, like Sir Edward Durning Lawrence, is laboring mightily in trying to prove that Bacon wrote the plays attributed to the genius of William Shakespeare. Two years ago the doctor conducted extensive explorations in the bed of the river Wye in a search for a cipher which would place the matter beyond the realm of controversy, but found none. Nothing daunted, however, he has returned to his task. No doubt when he has turned up every yard of mud in the neighborhood of his present activities he will ransack the beds of other rivers. There are a number of them on the inviolate isles, and the explorer has a big job on his hands, but the elements of mystery, fascination and entertainment involved in his quest will afford him ample compensation.

Dr. Edward Lawrence pursues a totally different course. He claims to have discovered the secret cipher in the plays themselves and in the historical compositions which Bacon acknowledged. But if Bacon did write the plays attributed to Shakespeare and left a cipher to prove it, why did he not leave it where somebody could find it? Why should he bury it in the depths of the river Wye or cunningly hide it in the recondite mazes of a cryptogram? He might just as well have left no clue at all as one that nobody could find. One wonders why, if he were the real author of the plays, he did not admit it anyway. The greatest mind of England, he was aware of their marvellous literary quality, the grandeur of their conception, and their extraordinary versatility.

Among Sir Edward Lawrence's amusing contentions is that one of the clues left by Bacon is the fact that the word hog frequently appears in the plays. Imagine the polished philosopher and author of Novum Organum and De Augmentis perpetrating such an atrocious and irreverent outrage on his family name. A few hours' investigation of the plays on this basis would disclose that five or ten thousand different people wrote them. In fact, we think it could be proved with equal force that Queen Elizabeth wrote them herself, because she was a composite personality of Portia, Cleopatra, Anne Boleyn and Lady Macbeth, with a little romantic dash of Juliet. The only flaw in the deduction would be the absence of the fragile qualities of Ophelia and Desdemona.

The Shakespeare vivisectionists in their advocacy of the Baconian theory have said some things about the Bard of Avon they will have to withdraw if they encounter him in the next world. They declare he could not read or write; that he did not even sign his own will or business agreements; that he was an uncouth country yokel whose table manners were outrageous, especially when it came to the soup. All this was bad enough, but his crowning obloquy was that he was an inferior actor, a barn-stormer something like the bedraggled Theophrastus of the present day musical comedy. But obviously this last reflection carries its own contradiction. The man who could not read or write, the ungracious Rube, must have been an actor of incomparable ability to make the world of that day and for three centuries afterwards believe that he composed those immortal masterpieces which bear his name.

The noble lords of Great Britain, with their backs to the wall on the land question, protest that they are quite willing to deal generously with their vassals who till the soil. All they ask is that they shall be given the right to dictate the terms of the contract, which is quite fair from their point of view, and at the same time eminently human, which, we suppose, their lordships will admit they are. There is not one of us who would not suggest the same thing if we were in the position of the great landowners. Still the world moves and reforms must be made. Dr. Home, our correspondent who sees through a glass darkly, fears a revolution is pending and contends the only thing that can avert it, is protection. If the good doctor would cleanse his glasses he would see that the revolution he dreads, without reason, we think, is on now. But it is quite a different affair from the French debacle. For this blessing we have to thank the good sense of the British nobles and the fine temperamental and mental poise of the masses of the British people.

A writer who seems to have no reverence for existing institutions, (ordained by special provision from on high, of course), says the caste system is more prevalent in Great Britain than it is in the East Indies. There may be some foundation for this caustic comment, but we think that perhaps it is a trifle too strong. And, if it comes to that, caste is not altogether unknown in our own and some other countries which pride themselves on their democratic institutions, although a person who loses caste therein may not be compelled to undergo the ordeal of walking on red-hot cinders in order to recover his or her standing within the sacred circle. We are a more resourceful people than our dark skinned brothers, and our systems are more pleasant and elastic. A substantial bank account applied as a plaster has been known to speedily remove some very dark stains and place the victim of circumstances in very good standing. So let us try to remove the beam from our own eye, before making sarcastic remarks about the mote in the optic of our dearly beloved brother, white or black.

A report from Ottawa says the amended plans for the construction of piers in connection with the breakwater have been approved by the department and that tenders for the work will be called for as soon as practicable. This is eminently pleasing news. Now if the two factions that are fighting over a dry dock site would but compose their differences the work of constructing the dock might begin speedily also and not be postponed until immediately preceding a general election, which may be three years hence unless we are utterly mistaken. Why should a fight over spoils stand in the way of work which is urgently needed by idle men in Victoria at the present time, not to speak of the necessity for more adequate accommodation for shipping long before the dock can be completed? If Mr. Barnard can do anything to speed the powers up we shall be amply compensated for another vision of his attractive and manly features adorning the columns of our morning contemporary.

Sir Donald Mann says trains will be running through from coast to coast on his system by August. We are pleased to read such a definite statement from the C. N. R. magnate. We assume also, although Sir Donald does not say so, that at the same time passengers will be able to take berth at Victoria on first-class sleeping cars and go right through to the other coast without change. That is what the Colonist assured us and what Premier McBride suggested if he did not actually pledge himself to the letter. But, the Premier being an honorable man and the Colonist an honorable journal, we cannot but accept their assurances without question. Our impression is that the date of opening is a little later than we were led to expect and may be called for in the contract, but we are quite content to allow reasonable latitude in the matter.

The captain behaved splendidly. So did the officers. They were British. This simple but eloquent observation was made by a foreigner who was rescued from the Volturmo. In undiminished measure does it prove that British seamen are still true to the noble traditions of the race from which they sprang. What war has ever wrung from an admiring world a loftier tribute? How these incidents give the lie to the blood and banners brigade who say that peace makes dross of the golden qualities of men. Every day amid hum-drum surroundings are performed acts of heroism even greater than those rewarded with the Victoria Cross—greater because they are not inspired by those extraneous conditions which set courage afire and make men indifferent to danger.

The late Charles Steers was perhaps not a very conspicuous figure in the public or the social life of Victoria, but he was in every sense of the word a good citizen, and in his quiet, unobtrusive way he undoubtedly exercised an influence it would be difficult to over-estimate upon all with whom he was brought in contact during his long residence in the city. His death will be sincerely mourned by his many friends and acquaintances.

Notwithstanding the treacherous condition of the pavements, motor car drivers persist in taking long chances in their daily rush through the streets. And occasionally they pay the penalty of their recklessness. The mad haste of some people is a thing few fellows can understand.

"No matter what your drink may be, Always add a little O-T."

THE NEW DRINK FOR CANADA

O-T is a drink, tonic and digestive. It appeals to all classes of people—abstainers and moderate drinkers. It is a drink for the home—for all the family; for O-T is non-alcoholic. Derived from fruits, spices, and herbs. O-T is wholesome. It is pure. It is nutritive. It is a drink the like of which is not found anywhere.

O-T is Non-Alcoholic

The enormous success achieved by O-T in Great Britain, Australia, Africa, India and other Countries is proof of its palatable quality. The equivalent of 3,000,000 bottles of O-T (100,000,000 drinks) was consumed in 1912. In Toronto, O-T has received a prompt welcome. Those who use it will continue to use it because O-T makes a good drink better.

Try O-T at Clubs, Cafes, Hotels, Bars, Restaurants and Fountains.

With Lemonade, Soda, Ginger Ale, etc.

Dilute O-T with Lemonade, Soda, etc. (just like Whisky) to make a drink not only pleasing in flavor, thirst-quenching and stimulating, but also with the "bite" and satisfying body of alcoholic liquors. The distinctive charm of these drinks appeals to all.

With Water (Cold or Hot).

O-T diluted with water (hot or cold) is especially valuable for those who do not drink sweetened waters as O-T adds a bite and flavour that completely satisfy the palate. The beneficial qualities of this drink and its economical cost make it most desirable.

With Gin, Whisky, Brandy.

O-T mixed with spirits (using 5 parts and 1 O-T) moderates any undesirable effect of the alcohol, and its wonderful blending qualities make a new flavour and charm; without the dash of O-T drinks will be without character and interest.

With Wine (Red or White).

O-T added to wine (red or white) intensifies their good qualities and greatly improves their digestive effect and flavour. O-T and cherry is a splendid aperitif, while O-T and port is the best dinner wine.

With Ale, Beer or Stout.

A dash of O-T in beer or stout is a great improvement; it takes away the heavy, filling effect and increases the good and beneficial properties of all malt liquors, besides reducing the intoxicating effect of the alcohol.

Will Make Inquiry.—The city council having approached the minister of railways in connection with the British Columbia Electric Railway franchise, asking for the company to bring pressure to bear on the company for improvements, or else to introduce legislation amending the franchise at the next session, Hon. Thomas Taylor has written that the question has been referred to the chief engineer of railways for a report.

Entertained Aged Men.—The Young People's Society of St. Paul's Presbyterian church entertained the residents at the Old Men's Home last evening, a very successful programme of songs and musical selections being given, and refreshments being provided. The aged inmates entered with the greatest enjoyment into the games with which the programme was followed, and the occasion was very much appreciated by all.

Afternoon Tea.—The various departments of the Young Women's Christian Association on Douglas street are proving their ability to be self-supporting. The tea-room, however, which is in charge of Miss Greer, and where delicious afternoon tea may be obtained at small cost, it is hoped will be more widely patronized by the public, who up to the present do not seem to have recognized that tea may be obtained here by outsiders as well as members.

Lecture on Dickens.—As the result of the Dickens' lecture delivered on Saturday evening by W. Lethaby in aid of the King's Daughters' rest room, the sum of $14 will be given to the latter institution. Mr. Lethaby's slides were of a most interesting character, as well as his lecture, which was attended by a large audience. Among the places and persons described and of which slides were shown were John Dickens, the author's father; Little Nell, of whom Dickens' sister was the supposed prototype; the reading-desk and lamp which Dickens took with him on his American tour; the White Horse Inn, Ipswich; Dickens' birthplace; a set of punch-ladies presented to the author by his publishers; Gadshill, where he lived for some time; Westminster Abbey, where he was buried; and others.

Beeby Thompson, manager of the European Petroleum Companies of Russia; "Petroleum Mining and Oil-field Development," by the same author; "The Story of Oil," by Walter Sheldon Tower, and a three-volume treatise on Petroleum by Sir Boverton Redwood, adviser to several of the government departments and to the corporation of the City of London. The publications also include a work published by A. Wright in 1865 on "The Oil Fields of Pennsylvania."

Genuine Imported Delicatessen—absolutely the finest "at The Kaiserhof."

French and German.—To-morrow evening the French and German classes will open at the Y. W. C. A., in charge of Miss Pownell Wright, recently of London, England, and it is hoped that there will be a large membership. Rev. T. W. Gladstone will have charge of the devotion, which commences to-night.

Ranching Along G. T. P.—The provincial agriculturist for the district along the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific between Port George and Hazelton, H. E. Walker, is returning to his field of duty this week, making his headquarters at Telkwa. Ranching is going on in that district to a considerable extent, he says.

Sale of Province's Resources.—Chief Forester McMillan announces that during the last twelve months 60 sales of standing timber, representing over 300,000,000 feet, have been completed, and that another 85 applications are under consideration. The prices, as determined by cruising, at from one and a half to two and a half dollars a thousand, have been paid to the government.

Charge of Police.—Constable Harry Taylor, who was in charge of the provincial and special constables at Nanaimo during the strike troubles, under Chief Constable Stephenson, goes to Vancouver to take charge of the police during the trials of the men sent up. Before he left Nanaimo his fellow constables presented him with a diamond stick-pin.

Cannery See Minister.—A deputation of cannery operators in the northern district of the province waited upon the commissioner of fisheries, Hon. W. J. Bowser, yesterday afternoon to discuss the regulations for the season of 1914, and ask for changes which they believe are needed. Mr. Bowser said he would take these up with the federal authorities.

Fruit Industry.—An inquiry into the conditions of the fruit industry in the States with a view to seeing what may be adopted to use in this province, is being made by the provincial government, and for this purpose R. M. Winslow, provincial horticulturist, and J. A. Kidston, a member of the commission, will leave for Washington, Oregon and California in a few days.

Y. W. C. A. Employment Bureau.—Since its transference to the new headquarters, Douglas street, the Y. W. C. A. Employment Bureau, of which Miss Bromley Jubb has charge, has been doing even better than formerly, and last month 115 situations were found for girls, this owing to some having come over from the previous month, being thirteen in excess of the actual number who applied during September.

Island Herds Healthy.—It will be welcome news to all as consumers of dairy products to learn on good authority that the herds on Vancouver Island are uniformly free from tuberculosis. This statement is made by Dr. Torrance, veterinary inspector-general for the Dominion and the livestock commissioner, Prof. William T. McDonald. Prof. McDonald has been conducting a campaign among the dairymen of the Island.

Y. W. C. A. to Entertain.—On the evening of Thanksgiving day the members of the Y. W. C. A., Douglas street, will entertain the members of the Y. M. C. A. to supper and an entertainment which is to consist of readings from Tennyson's "Dream of Fair Women," in which about twelve of the members are being rehearsed by Miss Maude Scott, a new member of the association, who will do the principal part of the reading. The various characters will appear in costume, and the work promises to be of a most pleasing character.

Fifteen Dollars for Teeth.—Judge Lampman has given a judgment for fifteen dollars in favor of Mrs. Connell, who sued the Provincial Royal Jubilee hospital for the value of a set of teeth which were lost while she was a patient in the hospital. During a minor operation the teeth were placed by one of the nurses in a glass of water by the bedside, but when their owner came to look for them later they could not be found. Search was made by the nurses and orderlies but no trace of the missing teeth could be found anywhere. Suit was entered, and before the judge the point of the liability of a hospital to a patient for property lost in this way was argued by J. S. Brandon for Mrs. Connell and by H. B. Robertson for the hospital corporation. It is now decided by his honor that liability attaches to the hospital board and they are ordered to pay the value of the teeth.

AUTOMOBILES ARE CHANGING FASHIONS!

People are just beginning to realize

Manufacturers and merchants saw the trend of things long ago and began to plan accordingly.

To-day, for instance, more soft hats for men are sold than ever before, because a soft hat is adaptable for use either on the street or in the motor.

To be up-to-date one must be posted on what the streets are showing. They are barometers of the times. Through the advertising columns of daily newspapers like THE TIMES you can keep posted on what is going on.

The merchants are not secretive. They need your support to grow. They try to provide the things you want. They use the newspapers to keep you informed. Their advertising pays them only when it serves you. That's why you should read advertising—so that you can reap the full harvest of service.

MY CHOICE.

Yes, I'd like brains, and wisdom truly great, And vision keen to choose my path aright. I'd wish to be in questions of the State A man to lead my fellows to the light. In short, I'd serve, and hope sagaciously To meet each day's demands as they arise. But better far than these pray grant to me The heart to ease the woes that round me lie.

DESCRIBES PARIS

Mr. Hills Gives Interesting Illustrated Lecture in Behalf of Seamen's Institute.

"Historic Paris" was the subject of a highly interesting lecture last evening at the First Baptist church by Mr. Hills in aid of the Seamen's Institute, a large number of Paris slides which gave a graphic pictorial representation of the various scenes and places described.

Among the best of the slides shown were, Notre Dame Cathedral, interior and exterior; Palais de Justice; the Church of the Madeleine; the Grand Opera House, which was built at a cost of nineteen million dollars; the statue of the Republic; the beautiful Parc de Belleville, the last of the works of Napoleon III.; the Cathedral of St. Denis, which was to the French what Westminster Abbey was to the English—the burial place of their kings; St. Cloud; the Palace at Versailles, with its beautiful halls and luxurious furnishings, which were so extravagantly explained the speaker, that it was little wonder that the starving poor of Paris had risen in revolt. An excellent picture of the Eiffel Tower was shown, the lecturer taking his audience in an imaginary trip to its highest platform, and pointing out from this position the various landmarks of the Paris spread at its feet.

At the conclusion of his interesting discourse Mr. Hills was thanked by Rev. Mr. Warnick for the entertainment which had been given. A collection was taken, the proceeds of which are to be devoted to the Seamen's Institute, this being the first of a series of illustrated lectures which will be given by Mr. Hills toward the same end during the coming months.

"THE RAINBOW"

A scene of tender sentiment and strong appeal in Henry Miller's new play "The Rainbow," is the meeting of father and daughter, who have not seen each other in sixteen years. Estranged from his wife, Neil Sumner, (Mr. Miller) has led the gay life of a rich man about town. The scene first shows his apartments at night after a poker-party. The night sounds of New York come in through the windows and the curtain falls for a few seconds. The scene the contrast. As it rises vivid sunshine pours into the room. To the audience this preparation for the girl's entrance is like waving the wand of magic. The brightness of the day is almost like a harbinger to the lonely man and into it comes the charming girl. Looking for the "daddy" whom she has not seen since she was a baby, Mr. Miller comes to the Victoria theatre, Thursday, October 16.

TALKING JUGGLER AMUSES

Mystery Act at Empress Theatre Requires Watching; Bill is Entertaining.

"This is a nice quiet place; I think I'll lie here," remarked Pollard, the talkative juggler, at the Empress theatre, last night after he had performed two or three tricks without arousing any great enthusiasm. Before his act was finished he was cautioning the audience not to applaud too much, as they would make the other acts jealous. It was not so much the tricks he did as the ingenuity of his explanations of the tricks he did not do that entertained. Pollard has a good act, the unexpected playing the star part. William Cahill is an Irish monologist who knows how to amuse. His arguments to prove the superiority of the Irish over all the other races were irrefutable, and the big house applauded him energetically. Belmont

PLAYER-PIANOS

Are the only player-pianos embodying the "human touch" device which consists of two extra bellows controlling the air as it passes from the pneumatics to the pumping bellows. It is so ingeniously arranged that while giving more elasticity and a naturalness to the touch it also divides the air used for the melody from that used for the accompaniment, supplying just half the amount to the latter. Thus, melody and accompaniment are always in exact proportion and the player is enabled to obtain effects that cannot be obtained from other makes of player-pianos.

The Nordheimer Player-Piano has other points of superiority that render it worthy of prime consideration when you are considering the purchase of a player instrument. It sells for a very reasonable price and we arrange exceptionally easy terms.

THE FEAST OF TABERNACLES.

Jews Commemorate Manner of Living of Forefathers When Leaving Egypt.

The Feast of Tabernacles, commanded to be observed by the Scriptures, begins to-morrow, when for seven days the children of Israel are told to dwell in booths, to commemorate the fact that their forefathers in coming from the land of Egypt dwelt in booths. The first and seventh days are kept holy by the modern Jews, and Rabbi Friedlander will preach in the synagogue in Blanchard street to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock. Feasting is always a mark of the event.

Trafalgar Service.—Next Sunday, October 19, there will be a patriotic service at St. Mary's church, Oak Bay, in commemoration of Trafalgar Day. The service will take place in connection with the 11 o'clock service in the morning.

Voters' League.—There will be a meeting this evening at the Congressional church of the Voters' League, when work pertaining to the elections will be discussed. A programme has been arranged to which all members and friends are invited.

Shipping News from Day to Day

LITTLE TRAVEL NOW DURING OFF SEASON

Makura Arrives To-day With Lightest Passenger List Yet

Bringing the lightest list of passengers that she has had since entering the Canadian-Australian trade, the fine liner Makura, commanded by Capt. Phillips, came to a berth at the outer docks at an early hour this morning, completing a 22-day passage from Sydney, N. S. W. The big red-stacker carried but 85 passengers, all told, which is almost as light as the list of the Marana, which docked here prior to the Makura. At this season of the year there is usually very little travel from the Antipodes, but 1913 seems to be exceptionally poor. The off-season this year has taken a decisive slump.

Owing to the fact that the passenger list was small, the usual concerts and other entertainments which are features of most of the trans-Pacific passages, were not held. There was very little musical talent on board, which also prevented any successful and enjoyable evenings being spent. The travellers seem to be more expert with the cricket bat and the tennis racket, for some very lively and keenly contested games were played on the commodious decks of the ship.

Beautiful Weather. Capt. Phillips reports a beautiful voyage. On both sides of the equator the weather was fine and the sea was comparatively smooth throughout. Fresh southeast winds were met from southeast to Auckland and on to Suva and Honolulu. After clearing from the Hawaiian port the wind set in from E. S. E. and held there for three days, when it shifted to E. N. E., with occasional showers. The sea was a little rough but the Makura steamed through it without causing any great discomfort to the passengers.

Not only was the passenger accommodation of the Australian liner sparsely filled, but her holds were not nearly filled to their capacity. For Victoria, the Makura carried but 40 cases of frozen mutton, 50 cases of soap, 2,650 cases of canned fruits, 1,825 cases of frozen butter, 9 sacks of fescue seed, and 6 live sheep. For the Terminal City the liner has 1,555 tons of cargo.

The passengers who disembarked at this port were as follows: First-class: Misses Esculet, Brett, Second-class: Mesdames Parke, Cameron; Misses Oswald; Messrs. Parke, Sutherland. Third-class: Messrs. Krumming, Boyden, Yakovich, Jugovich, Vranes, Abell, Allan, Dale.

WHITE LINER TO REMAIN IN STATION OVERNIGHT

According to a wireless message flashed from Capt. Davidson, master of the C.P.R. liner Empress of India, inbound from the Orient, the white liner will not reach William Head until 11 o'clock to-night, which means that she will have to remain berthed at the quarantine station until daybreak tomorrow morning. The India is completing an ordinary run across the Pacific and will be just too late to receive her pratique to-night.

ARCHITECT ARRIVES HERE

The Harrison liner Architect, Capt. Neilson, berthed here late yesterday afternoon from the United Kingdom after an uneventful run. Fair weather was met during the greater part of the long run, but after leaving San Francisco she was caught in bad fog and rain squalls and off Cape Blanco, had to be beached down. The Architect is discharging 400 tons of cargo here and will get away for Vancouver to-night.

TUG PIONEER TO TAKE ALTA OUT TO THE CAPE

It is expected that the American barkentine Alta, Capt. Thonagel, will tow to sea some time this afternoon. The tug Pioneer is to place a line on board her, owing to the fact that the Lorne is busy doing other business. The barkentine, which loaded in the upper harbor at the Canadian Puget Sound Mills, is to sail to Delagoa Bay, South Africa.

TOUCHING UP CONGRESS FOR HER MAIDEN VOYAGE

San Francisco, Oct. 14.—The new steamer Congress, of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company, which is to leave October 18 on her initial trip in service, is receiving a few finishing touches preparatory to her departure for Seattle. The vessel is being given a fresh coat of paint and otherwise gone over to make her up to snuff for her first trip on the run between this port, Puget Sound and Southern California. The Congress will be in command of Captain N. E. Cousins, formerly of the Governor. C. W. Hopkins, former purser of the President, gets the same billet on the Congress. He will be succeeded on the President by A. A. Mertins, who has been purser on the Puebla. W. J. Owens, who was freight clerk under Hopkins on the President, goes to the Puebla as purser.

"JAM" NOT SO BAD

The "jam" at the ocean docks this morning was not quite as tight as was expected. One of the ships failed to show up when the jam was at its worst, and the anxiety of the dock officials was greatly relieved. The Harrison liner Architect, Capt. Neilson, was berthed inside of the new pier and about 7.30 o'clock the Blue Funnel liner Antiochus, Capt. Flynn, took up the berth astern. About 7 o'clock the Makura, Capt. Phillips, of the Australian line, moored at the old dock inside and later the Osaka liner Tacoma Maru, Capt. Hamada, steamed up and took the outside berth. The Ajax Capt. Thompson, of the Holt line, which was expected to make things uncomfortable did not show up and everything went off peacefully. She will probably be seen to-night.

At the present time only the Architect and Antiochus are left; the Makura, having proceeded to Vancouver just before noon and the Tacoma Maru steaming for the Orient about the same time.

ALL OFFICERS BLAMED

Portland, Or., Oct. 14.—Capt. Owen Williams, master of the British ship Glensella, wrecked on Neah-Kah-Nie, October 1, was declared guilty of negligence yesterday by the British consulate, and his master's certificate was suspended for three months. First Mate L. W. Howard was reprimanded for not acting promptly when he discovered the ship to be in a dangerous position, and Second Mate John K. Colfield's certificate was suspended for six months for negligence in going too close in shore and not calling the captain sooner. The Glensella went on the rocks with all sails set, and the hull was sold for $500 where it lay.

HURRICANES LIVE PASSAGES OF SHIP

Barque Potalloch Has Fierce Weather; Rounds Neither Cape Coming Home

Battered by two typical South Sea hurricanes, one off the West Coast of South America and the other in the latitude of the Three Kings, the small barque Potalloch, Capt. Armstrong, had both her outward and inward passages enlivened considerably and all hands were kept on their mettle in order to assist their ship in combating against the terrible storms, which tried to batter her into a wreck and send her to help cram full the already bulging locker of Davy Jones.

The Potalloch came to an anchor in the Royal Roads early this morning, after having lain inside the spit at Port Angeles during the greater part of the night. The big windjammer was 117 days coming north from Port Natal, South Africa and made the passage without rounding either Cape of Good Hope or Cape Horn, shaping courses which kept her in the Pacific throughout and which took her close to New Zealand.

Hurricane Going Out

On her last outward trip from this coast the Potalloch departed from the Sound on December 1 with a lumber cargo consigned to Durban, S. A. The ship was 140 days completing the run via Cape Horn, one of the longest passages to be placed on record for a long time. When well down the Chilean coast the barque encountered a howling gale, which kept on increasing in fury until it was entered in the log as a hurricane. Most of the sail was taken off the ship and she was tossed about at times without a stitch of canvas set. The sea ran mountain high and much water found its way over the forecastle and bulwarks. The Potalloch

BARQUE RUNS ASHORE

Honolulu, Oct. 14.—The barque S. C. Allen went ashore last night off Diamond head, near the entrance to Pearl Harbor. The barque is resting easily and the tugs and interladder steamers are standing by to lend assistance. The S. C. Allen was twenty days out from Port Luchow for Honolulu with a cargo of lumber. She is of 632 tons and formerly carried sugar from the islands to San Francisco.

SISTER SHIP OF NIAGARA WILL BE BUILT AT FAIRFIELD YARDS

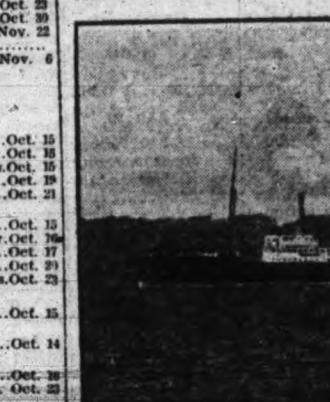

S. S. NIAGARA, WHICH WILL BE DUPLICATED

Slightly larger than the new steamship Niagara, which has just entered the Canadian-Australian service, a new liner has been ordered by the Union Steamship Company, of New Zealand, to replace the Marana, which is becoming too small for the trade between the Antipodes and British Columbia. A wire was received this morning from the Old Country stating that the Fairfield Shipbuilding Company, of Govan, Scotland, has been awarded the contract, and that the keel is to be laid immediately.

For some time it has been expected that this company would order another steamship for the Canadian-Australian service, which in the past few years has shown a tremendous growth, both in regard to the passenger business and the amount of freight which is moving. It is not so long ago when the old Moana, Aorangi and Miowera were looked upon as fine ships and quite large enough to handle all the trade between the two dominions. Great changes, however, are brought about in short periods of time.

About two years ago the Union

S. S. MARANA, WHICH WILL BE WITHDRAWN

came through without losing a rope yarn and once again spread her sails for the run around Cape Horn. The hurricane lasted for some days and there was little sleep for all hands. It was expected that the Potalloch would proceed from Port Natal upon the discharging of her lumber cargo, to Newcastle, N. S. W., for a full load of coal for San Francisco. Orders, however, were received by Capt. Armstrong to head for the Royal Roads in ballast. In order to escape the fierce weather which would likely be prevailing off Cape Horn at the time he would be off it ready to enter the Pacific, the master of the barque decided to make the longer run via New Zealand, amounting to nearly 14,000 miles. Soon after the Three Kings were sighted the second hurricane was met. It blew hard for some days and then head winds were met. After a month of beating about in South Atlantic the officers found that there were 200 miles south of the Three Kings and had made little or no progress. It was a strenuous time for all on board, as both watches were kept busy looking after things aloft.

Despite the fact that she was delayed by the hurricane in the South Sea, the Potalloch made a smart run from Port Natal. One hundred and seventeen days is pretty good sailing, especially when the hull is dirty.

May Go Into Dry-dock. It is not known at present whether the Potalloch will go on the ways or in dry-dock before proceeding to Vancouver to load a cargo of lumber. The hull of the barque is covered with sea growth and she is greatly in need of a cleaning. The slop-of-war Algerine is now on the stocks and is due to remain in dock for a week.

COUNTY OF LINLITHGOW IS TOWED OUT TO SEA

The fine four-masted full-rigged ship County of Linlithgow, Capt. Zachary, passed here early this morning in tow of the tug Lorne bound out to sea. The great windjammer had close on 2,000,000 feet of lumber aboard, consigned to Valparaiso. The Linlithgow is engaged in the lumber-carrying trade between British Columbia and Chile.

BARQUE RUNS ASHORE

Honolulu, Oct. 14.—The barque S. C. Allen went ashore last night off Diamond head, near the entrance to Pearl Harbor. The barque is resting easily and the tugs and interladder steamers are standing by to lend assistance. The S. C. Allen was twenty days out from Port Luchow for Honolulu with a cargo of lumber. She is of 632 tons and formerly carried sugar from the islands to San Francisco.

YOKOHAMA CLEARED

A DAY BEHIND TIME

Sado Maru Delayed in Orient; May Make Port on Schedule; Tacoma Sails

According to advices received this morning by W. R. Dale, local agent of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, the liner Sado Maru, Capt. Asakawa, was one day late sailing from Yokohama on her trans-Pacific voyage to Victoria. Instead of getting away last Wednesday, it was Thursday before her lines were finally cast off and the pilot navigated her out through Yokohama harbor. The Sado is a good steaming vessel and may possibly pick up the day she lost in the Orient, but the bad weather which is now sweeping the Pacific may prevent her from docking here until one week from Thursday.

The advices stated that the Sado has on board 45 passengers and 300 tons of general freight for Victoria. She has heavy shipments of Oriental merchandise for Sound ports, including a rich shipment of silk which will be sent overland to the New York merchants.

Tacoma Put to Sea. Shortly before noon to-day the Osaka Shosen Kaisha liner Tacoma Maru, Capt. Hamada, put to sea bound for Oriental ports. When she came up to her berth here this morning it was learned that at Tacoma, yesterday there had been merry scenes on board the ship. A huge arch of evergreens and bearing a "welcome" was built over the gangplank and strung along both sides of the ship were Japanese decorations. The cause of the demonstration was the leaving of a sight-seeing party, comprising nearly 100 Japanese from different parts of the Northwest. They are going sight-seeing and bride-seeking, and instead of bringing back 100 Nipponese the Osaka line will in all probability have double the number.

The Tacoma Maru had a large cargo aboard and she was sitting deeply in the water. She had 80,000 sacks of flour, besides much wheat, fish, machinery and general freight.

Panama In Friday. The Panama Maru, Capt. Kanaka, of the Osaka fleet, is due to arrive here on Friday from the Far East. The master of the ship has not yet reported what time he will reach William Head.

CHARTERED BY WIRELESS

Seattle, Oct. 14.—The wireless equipment of the barkentine Everett G. Griggs, which has made her world famous as one of the few windjammers capable of radio communication, has proved to be a good financial investment. In a letter received in Seattle yesterday by Mrs. E. R. Sterling, wife of the vessel's master, Captain Sterling said that his vessel was chartered by wireless while at sea and that by the use of radio messages he was able to obtain a rate two shillings higher than if he had waited until reaching port. The letter to Mrs. Sterling is from Sydney, N. S. W., where the Griggs put in September 20. The new charter is for a cargo of coal from Newcastle to Callao.

SPORTING NEWS

ICE-SKATING SEASON OPENS FRIDAY; PACIFIC COAST HOCKEY LEAGUE PREPARING

Victoria Will Have Practically Same Line-Up as Last Year; Ice Now Being Made

The ice skating season in Victoria will commence next Friday night, when the Arena will be thrown open to the public. The actual ice-making is now in progress, so it behoves all followers of the sport to get out their skates which have been thrown into limbo for the summer and get busy oiling and sharpening them. Simultaneously in Vancouver the great artificial ice rink owned by the Patrick Bros. near Stanley Park will be opened to the public.

The night previous to the opening will be reserved for the hockey players who have summered on the coast, and they will have a chance to try out the ice.

Although it is known that no contracts have yet been sent out to the players who will be on the coast teams this winter, it is pretty well assured just how the teams will line up. Victoria will have practically the same team as last year made rings around the other contestants in the Pacific Coast Hockey League. Goldie Producers however will be missing from the line-up, and his place at point will most probably be taken by Big Bobby Gorge, who rendered such yeoman service for the Capitals and gave every indication towards the close of the season of becoming one of the brightest stars in the hockey firmament.

Lester Patrick will have the same quartette on his forward line and will probably dig up another defence man as a substitute in place of Genge.

The Westminster team will be in contact with the exception of Jimmy Gardner, who has gone east to manage the Canadians in Montreal. It is stated that Harry Thrope will replace him on the line. The Vancouver team will be without Frank Patrick, Jack McDonald and Carl Kendall, and in place of these will be Newey Lalonde, Frank Neighbors, and very probably young McKenzie, a sensational centre forward from Kenora and former club-mate of Fred Harris. It is more than probable that the Terminal City aggregation will toast a new goal-tend this season.

Seven-man hockey will be played again in the local league. The six-man game was tried out last year on several occasions and was not found at all pleasing to the fans, the game being far less uninteresting owing to the minimizing of team work and the overmuch individual play. The six-man hockey is far excellence an eastern innovation, and the annual effort to get back the seven-man game threatens to break out in Ottawa as soon as the N. H. A. moguls commence to talk hockey.

According to dispatches received from the capital city of the Dominion, the Ottawas are this year very anxious to have the old-style game back, and believe that both the Torontos and the Tecumsehs will be with them in this. The Tecumsehs will be under different ownership this season, and the new men back of the team are advocates of the seven-man style. The Torontos openly favored the old style last year.

PORTLAND CINCH PENNANT OF PACIFIC COAST LEAGUE

By dropping both games of a double-header against Portland on Sunday the chances of the Venice team to win the pennant of the Pacific Coast League faded into nothingness. Had Hogan's warriors captured these two contests they would have had a chance for the honors, whereas now they will have to hustle to keep ahead of Sacramento for second place. The opening of the season saw Los Angeles away in the lead. The pace they set was terrific, and it looked as though they would win the pennant in a walk. They failed, however, to stand the strain and dropped game after game until now they are not even in the first division. Portland, although off to a poor start, gradually climbed up into first place and since gaining the leadership have never been headed.

They are the best balanced team in the league, their pitchers being the best in the circuit and their all round team work was far superior to that of the other clubs.

FREDDIE WELSH AGAIN.

Billings, Mont., Oct. 13.—In one of the cleverest and fastest boxing contests ever seen in Eastern Montana, Freddie Welsh, English lightweight champion, was given the decision here over Leo Kossick, of Moorhead, Minn., at the end of the twelfth round. Kossick tried for a knockout several times, but failed.

WINS AT LAST

AD. WOLGAST

Ex-lightweight champion, who after being on the tologogian for many moons came back yesterday by defeating Neilson in a ten-round fight at Milwaukee. Wolgast had the better of eight rounds and Bat of two.

SPORTING GOSSIP OF THE DAY

Rugby enthusiasts get their chance Saturday, when Wanderers and the Gallant Fifth clash in open contest.

Everyone seems to have been handing it to Ad Wolgast lately. It is a refreshing change to hear of his little "come-back."

Battling Nelson might have been big game once—but not now, ah—not now. This Speaker went on record before the game with the statement that Joe Bush would prove the one big surprise. In this talk he had the edge on those courageous gentlemen who never prophesy until the series is over.

The convicts in the Georgia state prison had world's series bulletins handed into the prison while the fight was on. It is said they favored the Giants. Probably because McGraw's men are such good base stealers.

Blackburn Rovers look like winners in the English soccer league. But the season is young yet and there's many a slip.

Miss Violet Pooley well upheld British Columbia prestige in the great United States golf tournament yesterday. Miss Dodd has been slated to win the ladies' championship, but she will have a hard fight to get past Miss Ravenscroft, the ex-English champion.

Jack Johnson is now a French citizen. Lovers of the ringside will now try to imagine "Il' Arthur" parleying along the boulevards. Perhaps he will run up against Georges Carpentier, he of the scintillating wonders. Carp. would give the burly black man a good run for his money.

CRICKETERS' ANNUAL MEETING.

The cricketers of Oak Bay who have done so well during the past season by fighting their way through to the final of the Pacific Coast tournament, will hold their annual meeting in the municipal hall, Oak Bay, on October 30 at 8 p.m. The hall has been very kindly loaned for the occasion by the Oak Bay council.

Y.M.C.A. HOCKEY.

That the Y.M.C.A. Hockey Club will be in full swing again this season is forecasted by the announcement of Vice-President Murray of the club has called a meeting of all enthusiasts in the association building for tomorrow, Wednesday, at 8 o'clock.

REMARKED ON THE SIDE

New Zealand All-Blacks Are Great Side. There is no doubt about it that the New Zealand All-Blacks are a great football playing machine in which every part works with the utmost smoothness. And what is most valuable they are as good in defence as offence, which is proved by the fact that they have never yet been scored on. Their work in California is being watched with great interest by all Rugby enthusiasts in Victoria, who will have a chance of seeing the visitors when they play here. The manner in which the All-Blacks' three-quarters mowed down the California University was, according to reports, a revelation. It is not many years ago since the first sensational All-Blacks, with their peculiar Mori cries, went to the old country and licked up everything in sight, until they were downed by the gallant little principality of Wales. The present aggregation looks like repeating the trick on this continent.

Victoria's Favorite Sport Will Soon Be On.

Hockey fans are preparing for another exciting season in the Pacific Coast Hockey League. Whatever may be the final count, it is a sure thing that Lester Patrick's boys will put up a good fight for senior honors, and as the team is to all intents and purposes the same as brought home the bacon in no uncertain fashion last year, there is no reason why they should not repeat that feat. The absence of Producers will not seriously affect the line-up. Though very fast on the ice and a clever individual worker, Goldie is not so good a shot as burly Bob George, nor does his general play work so well in the fast travelling combination. Vancouver will again be strengthened by the presence of the old country and licked up everything in sight, until they were downed by the gallant little principality of Wales. The present aggregation looks like repeating the trick on this continent.

CURTAIN RISES ON RUGGER MATCHES

Interesting Season Promised for Barnard Cup Games; Prospects of Team

A good deal of business was got through at yesterday's meeting of the Victoria Rugby Union in preparing for the coming football season which virtually opens on Saturday next.

Among other things it was decided that in future no member of a competing club may officiate as touch judge; this regulation was thought necessary after the dissatisfaction so often expressed last year over the rulings of interested officials. To preserve the game from anything like this in the future neutral touch judges will be chosen for every match. For the first match of the season on Saturday next, between the Wanderers and the Fifth Regiment, Messrs. T. Edwards and W. Newcombe have been selected. A. D. B. Scott will referee.

Two games will be played on Monday next, Thanksgiving Day. In the first place the J. B. A. club will play its annual game with the Wanderers at 2.30. Another Barnard cup feature is set for the morning when those two sterling teams, the Welsh and the Law Students will clash at 11 o'clock.

All the clubs in the league are well signed up for the season, and interest in the game seems to have spread to a very great extent. It would be a bold prophet who would attempt to prognosticate the outcome of the season, for several of the clubs are so evenly matched—on paper—that the issue is sure to be uncertain right to the end. Law Students are again a very formidable aggregation, having practically all the merrymen, having last year, while the Wanderers are stronger than ever. The Welsh have got into training earlier, and in addition to some useful three-quarters have plenty of weight in the pack.

The resources of the new Fifth Regiment club are as yet practically untried, but with Heineke to lead them they ought to give a good account of themselves.

LOCAL GOLFERS BUSY; COMPETITION MONDAY

Despite the lateness of the season, the Victoria golf links promise to assume a very active appearance during the next few weeks. On Monday next, Thanksgiving, a big club meet will be held, when a local bogey competition with optional sweeps on handicap will be played off. On November 1 the annual twenty-team match with Seattle Golf Club will be held, and also a golfers' picnic that expects to hold their own against the Sound City cracker.

The secretary of the Victoria club announced yesterday that it is practically certain that Ray and Yarden will play here on October 25 or 26. Though no official intimation has yet been received from the great golfers in response to the club's invitation, a favorable answer is hourly expected, and as the Englishmen are scheduled to play both in Portland and Seattle, the prospects of their slightly extending their trip are very bright.

BIG LEAGUERS PLAY AT PORTLAND NOV. 18

Portland, Ore., Oct. 14.—The New York Giants and Chicago White Sox will play an exhibition game in Portland on November 18, a contract having been made yesterday by Judge W. W. McCrede, president and owner of the Portland Coast League team.

This announcement makes the time of the tour a little more certain than previously. It was known that the big leaguers are to appear in Dugdale's park in Seattle on October 19. A morning game is to be played in the City of Destiny on the same day, so it appears that the two teams will have to effect some pretty quick transportation to live up to their schedule. As no contracts have yet been signed up between the Stars and any other of the southern aggregations, the projected tour in California and Denver is as yet somewhat nebulous.

ART SHAFER

Who substituted so well for Snodgrass in the centre garden during the world's series? Shafer is very speedy and is also good for a single now and then. He batted at only a .176 clip during the series.

WARNING.

The charming village in Upper Wharfedale to which Captain Kettle retired after his amazing adventures, says the Manchester Guardian, has been chucking over a notice in the window of the largest shop, which is also the post office. It reads: "May I suggest to the individual who stole my apples that it is inadvisable to eat the specimens that have been stored with strychnine for the birds?" C. J. Cutcliffe Hynes.

JIM THORPE

Big Carlisle Indian, now with New York Giants, will travel with the big leaguers on their western tour. Though he has not done much yet, Jim has plenty of baseball promise.

FOR CAESAREWITCH.

London, Oct. 14.—Following is the latest betting for the Caesarewitch great long-distance autumn handicap run over two miles and a quarter at Newmarket Wednesday next: Fantasio (8 st.), 8 to 1; Wagstaff (7 st. 10 lbs.), 10 to 1; Anney (6 st. 12 lbs.) and Grave Creek (7 st. 20 lbs.), 100 to 1; Rivoli (8 st. 10 lbs.), 100 to 1; Canadott (6 st. 12 lbs.), 400 to 1; Warlingham (8 st.) and Augur (6 st. 13 lbs.), 20 to 1; Lvalne (7 st. 3 lbs.) and Wilfrid (5 st. 10 lbs.), 25 to 1.

"RUBE" MARQUARD

"Rube" by name but not by nature, Marquard was McGraw's first choice as mound occupier for the first game of the world's series. Unfortunately for "Rube" the Mackian sluggers were in form and they piled on him.

THIN FOLKS WHO WOULD BE FAT

Increase in Weight Ten Pounds or More.

A Physician's Advice. "I'd certainly give most anything to be able to fat up a few pounds and stay that way," declares every excessively thin man or woman. Such result is not impossible, despite past failures. Thin people are victims of mal-nutrition, a condition which prevents the fatty elements of food from being taken up by the blood as they are when the powers of nutrition are normal. Instead of getting into the blood, all the fat and flesh producing elements stay in the intestines until they pass from the body as waste.

To correct this condition and to produce a healthy, normal amount of fat the nutritive processes must be artificially supplied with the power which nature has denied them. This can best be accomplished by eating a Sargol tablet with every meal. Sargol is a scientific combination of six of the best strength-giving, fat-producing elements known to the medical profession. Taken with meals, it mixes with the food and turns the sugars and starches into rich, ripe nourishment for the tissues and blood and its rapid effect is remarkable. Reported gains of from ten to twenty-five pounds in a single month are by no means infrequent. Yet its action is perfectly natural and absolutely harmless. Sargol is sold by good druggists everywhere and every package contains a guarantee of weight increase or money back.

Caution:—While Sargol has produced remarkable results in the treatment of nervous indigestion and general stomach disorders, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh-producing effect, be used by those who are not willing to increase their weight ten pounds or more.

MATHEWSON'S CAREER.

Christy Mathewson, the Big Six of the New York Giants, was born at Factoryville, Pa., August 12, 1882. The master who held the victorious Phillies runless in their only defeat played his first baseball with the Keystone Academy team. Later he entered Bucknell University and pitched for his nine. His first professional engagement was with Honesdale, Pa. Subsequently he played with Taunton, Mass., and Norfolk, Va., clubs.

Mathewson was first discovered for fast company by Connie Mack, whose team he defeated in that historic game in the world series. Mack entered into negotiations with Mathewson, but "Muggsy" McGraw beat him to it, and in 1900 Christy joined the Giants. He did not show exceptionally well for a couple of seasons, but got going later and has been the mainstay of the team ever since.

JUDGE'S EXAMPLE LEADS TO PRISON.

Mr. Justice Bucknill, who has announced his coming retirement from the bench, tells many a good story.

On one occasion he was shooting, when he gave a man his injunction. On the case coming into court, counsel said, "Your lordship may remember this case." He replied, "I do, indeed, because I nearly killed a pheasant, a barrister and a solicitor with one shot."

As to angling, "I'm a born poacher," his lordship has declared. "Once when shooting in North Wales with a member of the chancery bar, I dived myself of coat and vest and showed my friend how to 'tickle' trout in a wayside stream."

"My movements were watched by a local lad who accompanied me on our shoot, and the following year, on visiting the neighborhood, I was told, 'He is in prison for tickling trout. He saw you do it last year. He has been doing it himself since, and they caught him.'"

STRONG NERVES

The Secret of Good Health

More ailments are due to weak nerves than to any other cause. You know the nerves are little wires that lead from the spinal cord to all parts of the body, intended by nature to convey the power which runs the human machine. Every artery, every vein, no matter how insignificant it may appear to be—every gland and tissue of the human body are well supplied with a delicate network of nerve wires which give them power to act. This power we sometimes call nerve force is nothing but electricity.

To prove that the nerves convey the motive power of the body, just sever a nerve of the stomach and that organ will become paralyzed.

The reason any part of your body becomes weak or debilitated is because it does not get enough electricity. When one part fails to do its work properly, other complications arise, causing sickness and disease.

Help nature cure by restoring nerve force, electric energy. The man with strong nerves is always a healthy man, for he has plenty of nerve force which keeps the body healthy. If your nerves are weak and you are sick or ailing in body the electricity lacks.

Electro-Vigor does this while you sleep. It fills the nerves with new life—new vim, and out crops the new energy which makes health.

Electro-Vigor is not an electric belt. It is a dry-cell battery and makes its own power continuously. There is no

FREE TRADE AND REVOLUTIONS.

To the Editor:—The greed, rapacity and inhumanity of the French king and nobles to which you, in common with the earlier historians, or most of them, ascribe the French Revolution, were just as great ten years before it as in 1789 on its eve. The difference was that in 1789 all the north of France was starving and "wanted something done." France was well-to-do in 1780. "Comfort and luxury were spreading." In 1785, England, according to Lord Rosebery, "had sunk to be a second if not a third rate power." Then France, persuaded by the philosophers, gave Pitt in 1786 the treaty which opened her markets freely to English competition, and made England rich. The French manufacturers could not compete with English prices, and simply went out of business, while their workmen starved in Houen and the country round and flocked flocking into Paris, hoping there might be work or at least food for them there, and it was with these starving artisans the Revolution began. The king was supported by the peasants, in La Vendee; it was by the townsmen he was killed. The women who brought the king and queen in from Versailles cried out for bread; hunger was the urgent condition at the opening of the Revolution, and that after only two years of the free trade which was to make everyone happy! Can you tell me any country in the world that has ever improved its world-position while working under a free trade system?

W. E. HOME.

A SAILOR'S YARN.

To the Editor:—I notice in Sunday's Colonist, under the heading of "British Columbia Should Be Gainer," the opinion of Capt. Logan as to the effect of the Panama canal on this province. In the first place I am, like a good many others, anxious to know what experience a sailor that rises to a captaincy has in standing timber, mineral lands and the industries in general he talks about, and who told him British Columbia needed the cheap labor from southern Europe. He says the greatest need of this province is cheap labor. Then why not set an example by refusing to take any more wages than an ordinary seaman, and so enable the insurance company to lower the rate on shipping, and prove himself in earnest. If Capt. Logan can spare the time I will prove to him that this province is not in a position to absorb any more men at present. Why, we have hundreds of men unemployed in this town alone who are willing to work. I am not quite sure of Capt. Logan's politics, but if he has any grudge against either party he can sure get them defeated at the next election by signing on either and let people of Victoria know, because we well remember how G. H. Barnard won out in the Dominion election by his stand against alien labor, low wages and reciprocity. But we do need before we get any more labor on the British Columbia market a few more level-headed business men to replace some of the hot air artists and boomers. But what's the use, anyhow, Sailors always did like a yarn.

SELLS BUST OF LINCOLN.

Washington, Oct. 14.—A plaster of paris bust of Lincoln is among the articles that will be offered for sale at auction by the post office department. For years it has rested in the museum maintained by the dead letter office. Now because of a decision to abolish the museum it will go under the hammer with a number of articles of more or less value.

NO COMMISSION TO SETTLE SOOKE SUIT

City Council Declines to Appoint Committee to Arrange Basis of Agreement

WATER COMMISSIONER HAS FULLEST POWER

Mr. Rust Does Not Favor Day Labor in Prosecution of Undertaking

The net result of a debate on the Sooke waterworks contract extending over three hours last evening was the passage of a resolution that no contracts will be let till the necessary finances have been provided, and that the bonds for the undertaking shall not be sold at less than 90 net.

The desirability of letting the concrete pipe line contract received strong encouragement from Mayor Morley, who advocated the award to the lowest tenderer, the Graft Construction Company, subject to the company giving satisfactory proof of ability to complete the undertaking, but no resolution was passed, the council adjourning till to-morrow evening in order to allow a period for a further reply on the financial situation from the Dominion Securities Company.

The council did not entertain a proposal to refer all matters affecting the contract to a commission with a view to securing a settlement of the lawsuit with the Westholme Lumber Company, as advocated by Alderman Cuthbert, the city solicitor advising against reference to a board of arbitrators. The mayor stated that recently ineffectual efforts had been made to reach a settlement by consent.

Has No Power. On the question of day labor the debate was proceeding when the discussion was adjourned, legal opinion being submitted that the council had no power to modify without the consent of the water commissioner any recommendation of that official, as it must either accept or reject his suggestions. If day labor is enforced in the continuation of the contract, stated the city solicitor.

There was an enormous attendance, the company staying to the end. Serg. Carson's presence had a soothing effect on the audience. The meeting was not, however, without incidents. As the mayor, not liking the observation of Alderman Fullerton on day labor, told him to address the chair, the mayor indicated that he was in charge of the meeting and the interruption terminated. Many past, as well as present, officials attended.

At the outset a communication was read from the city solicitor as to the powers of the commissioner. The commissioner under the Sooke contract had power to arrange for the completion of the contract he pointed out, and as the responsible party that official must exercise plenary powers in seeing the work to a conclusion. In other words any changes in his recommendations made by the council, or else the Westholme Lumber Company would be in a position to declare that the contract was not being completed in accordance with the original contract.

Advise Against Arbitration. When Alderman Cuthbert moved his motion in favor of the reference of the subject to a commission, consisting of a judge, a leading engineer and a leading contractor, and the appointment of a committee to prepare the necessary arrangements, the advice of the city solicitor on the situation was sought.

Mr. Robertson gave it as his opinion that it would be unwise to submit the issue to arbitration, if proceeding in the regular way by legal court, the council, if it was not satisfied with the decision, could appeal to a higher court.

If the council wanted a settlement he suggested that negotiation would be the best course to adopt, as it would not compromise the final settlement. He did not advise a settlement because in his opinion the city had an excellent case in the courts. The city also had to consider the bonding company for the contractors in this matter.

After the council had learned from Alderman Cuthbert the advantages of the settlement of litigation before awarding further contracts, the mayor said he had been in consultation with President Cameron of the Westholme Lumber Company, but neither he nor Alderman Meston had been able to shake the president in his attitude of refusal.

The council then divided: For a commission, Aldermen Cuthbert, Dilworth, McNeill and Humber. Against: The Mayor, Alderman Gleason, Porter, Meston, McCandless and Fullerton.

Financial Situation. Taking up the financing, the possibilities of selling a further stock issue at the present juncture were criticized by Alderman McNeill, who read correspondence on the subject from the city's fiscal brokers.

Alderman McNeill submitted that the observations of the Dominion Securities Company were most discouraging to an immediate issue of $100,000, suggested by the finance committee. He thought it would be bad financing to issue any more treasury notes.

Alderman Gleason, chairman of the finance committee, reassured the council, declaring that things were not as black as represented. He was satisfied from the telegrams that the brokers would be able to float $500,000 privately if the city needed the money at once.

Alderman Cuthbert looked to the dawn of a new era in the record of day labor if a good business manager were put in charge. By so doing the council could stop at any time, whereas if contracts were let up in further litigation, should there not be enough money to make the progress payments.

Urges Action. The mayor believed that under the circumstances the work should be pressed immediately, even if a little money was lost upon the sales of bonds. There was no intention to issue treasury notes for the work, he said.

The council decided by resolution to adopt a suggestion instructing the water commissioner not to let any contracts till money is in sight up to $500,000 and not to accept a lower offer than 90 net.

Alderman Fullerton next moved a motion that no tenders for Sooke waterworks be let, but that the work be done by day labor. Alderman Humber seconded, but the mayor declined to accept the amendment, holding it not in order.

Alderman Cuthbert then moved that the council recommend to the water commissioner to have the work carried through by day labor. Alderman Fullerton seconded the motion, which was accepted.

In support of the contention for day labor Alderman Cuthbert said he would not support day labor on the system which had prevailed in the city for the last 20 years. It must be in the hands of an experienced man, he declared, who would not have a great many questions to attend to, as the present commissioner has, but could be on the job all the time. He would suggest that the council advertise for such a superintendent, one with ten years experience, to take over the work and finish it on the engineers' estimates. If he finished it at a lower sum he should be paid ten per cent. bonus on the amount saved, the alderman held. The city needed a business man who understood the management of men, and undertakings of this character. He should be a man of experience and capacity. He should place competent foremen at the principal centres where work was done in connection with the contracts. There should be some limitation looking to the employment of white citizens and British citizens.

Commissioner Opposed. Alderman Fullerton instanced the case of Fort William as a city where the day labor proposal had worked well in a waterworks contract.

Alderman McNeill favored day labor, as did also Alderman Dilworth, but the former felt the council must be bound by the recommendations of the water commissioner.

Mr. Rust took the view that, while he had supported day labor in connection with a number of contracts, he was obliged in the present case to carry the contract out as economically as possible in his dual capacity for the city and for the contractors. He pointed out that a considerable portion of the work had been done by day labor, but the time had come when some of the work must be executed by contract. He did not think it wise to take the risk at the present time, and announced that arrangements had been made to have the successful contractors for the concrete pipe line handle the pipe as manufactured. He believed the adoption of day labor would lead to greater cost, that the work would not be carried out so promptly and that the city would be accepting a liability which was dangerous.

Conferences with Contractors. Mayor Morley reported to the council the result of a series of conferences with the representatives of the various concrete pipe firms and detailed their various offers. He moved an amendment to the day labor resolution that the city should award the contract through the water commissioner to the Graft Construction Company, that company having demonstrated its capacity to carry out the work.

The mayor continued that the company had undertaken to enlarge the dimensions of the pipe from 40 to 42 inches, without additional cost, to use either the lock joint or Jackson joint, and to complete the work by December 31, 1914. The company would undertake, he said, to place the work under a competent foreman, would manufacture the pipe on the work, take over its delivery and lay it. This company also undertook, he added, to give proof of its ability within ten days, failing which the commissioner should award the contract to the Pacific Lock Joint Company, whose promises were equivalent to that of the other company. The lower tender would save the city $21,000. By having the 42 inches in diameter, the city would be assured of the 16,000,000 gallons daily, about which there had been considerable controversy.

Mr. Rust indicated that he proposed to let the contract to the Graft Construction Company as soon as he was satisfied of the intentions of the company to do the work. He had heard from the Macdonald Godson Company, of Vancouver, lowest tenderers for the riveted steel pipe, of the company's intentions to establish a plant in the city.

Alderman Humber was on his feet to continue the debate when a motion to adjourn was taken at a late hour.

RESUME PAVING OF MAIN THOROUGHFARES

Last Block on Douglas Street Being Torn Down; Work Advances on Gorge Road

Street work is proceeding once again after the long interval of inaction. The grading of Douglas street is going on apace and almost the last of the houses to be moved back or torn down is now in the hands of the house-breakers at the corner of King's road. On the intersection of the trunk street and Hillside avenue the asphalt material is being laid by dusky workmen, while a curb and gutter is being laid at various points along the route. The space where the fountain stood for over twenty years will soon be covered by the new roadway; all that remains now being a small circle of languishing shrubs. While the actual buildings have been moved there is still a considerable quantity of garden property to be occupied in the new street line, and the singular prospect of lamp standards in gardens and other indications of the change which is coming over the thoroughfare may be noticed at various points.

From a financial standpoint the completion of the paving is an important one, as it will enable collections to be made under five by-laws embracing some of the largest local improvement contracts in the city, thereby releasing a considerable amount of city money, as well as enabling the city to collect under the expropriation by-laws which cover a large sum for the whole length of the street.

On the Gorge road, in the section which is to be undertaken this winter, the concrete base has been laid and it will be surfaced as soon as thoroughly dry. It will end at Manchester road, the second section to Carroll street now being macadamized to carry the work over the winter. This section has previously been in an abominable condition, particularly at the ravine bridge. Beyond Carroll street to the city boundary the street is in fair shape, but thence to the Gorge bridge it is a sea of liquid mud, and the rumored intentions of paving contractors for Saanich to make a start on this work, if well founded, will be welcomed by every resident.

EQUALITY LEAGUE MEETS

Enthusiastic Gathering Listens to Interesting Addresses by Equal Suffrage Exponents.

The most enthusiastic of all the meetings held this year by the Political Equality League was that held on Saturday evening in the King's Daughters' rest-room, at which there was an excellent attendance. The president, Mrs. Gordon Grant, presided, and three excellent addresses were given during the evening, the first of which was that of Mrs. Pratt, of Calgary, who told of the keen interest which the women of that city are taking in the municipal vote, and its exercise.

Mrs. Spofford spoke on "Why Men and Their Wives Should Go to the Polls together," pointing out that the fact that men and women had not gone together had reared up a barrier between them which could only be surmounted by equality of franchise privileges. Dr. (Mrs.) Shaw, of Oregon, gave a very entertaining account of the manner of winning the franchise in that state, and referred to the changes which they, the women, had succeeded in effecting: since their hopes had been consummated with respect to the obtaining of the ballot.

During the evening Miss Shrapnell gave a much appreciated violin solo, and Mrs. Ferree sang. The next meeting, it was announced, would be a card party to be held on Saturday, October 25, at the same hall, which will be followed by a musical programme.

Mr. Fred Mason, the well-known mattress manufacturer of St. Andrews, N.B., says:—
"I had eczema on my knee, which caused me terrible pain. The parts would itch, burn and tingle, and then when rubbed or scratched, would become very painful. When the knee got warm, it burned worse, and the itching and burning and smarting were almost unbearable. I tried various remedies, but got no better, so I decided to go to Montreal and take special treatment. I received treatment at the Montreal General Hospital for thirteen weeks, but at the end of that time I was not cured, and almost gave in. A friend advised me to give Zam-Buk a trial. "Almost as soon as applied Zam-Buk stopped the itching and the irritation. I persevered with the balm and it was soon evident that it would do me good. Each day the pain was reduced, the sore spots began to heal, and by the time I had used a few boxes of Zam-Buk I was quite cured. "Since then Zam-Buk has cured blood-poison in my finger, and at a time when my finger was in such a terrible condition that I feared it would have to be amputated." For eczema, blood-poisoning, piles, ulcers, sores, abscesses, varicose ulcers, bad leg, cold sores, chapped hands, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin injuries and diseases, Zam-Buk is without equal. 50c. box all druggists and stores or post free, Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for prices. 100% DIVIDENDS In Fuel Saved Each Winter!

How to get more for your money. That's the rub.

There are ways and ways to economize. Some do without; some buy inferior articles.

Others make a better use of the money they spend. And that is the kind of economy we want to talk about.

Did you ever figure out how much your heat cost you?

Do you know that 95 per cent of the ordinary heating stoves utilize only half of the heat that is in the coal?

Do you realize what this wasted half costs you?

Utilize that lost half and you will make a real saving and get more heat in the bargain.

Every stove with numerous air leaking joints wastes more available heat than the stove originally cost. That waste is the gas portion of your coal and the heat that goes up the chimney in the ordinary stove. Save the gas—mix it properly with air—burn it and you develop an immense amount of otherwise wasted heat.

But it requires a stove of special construction. It must be a stove that is scientifically and mechanically perfect. It must be a stove that has no air leaks.

[That stove is—

Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater

The stove that absolutely controls your fire.
The stove that burns the gases wasted by other stoves.
The stove that radiates a constant and steady heat from either soft coal, hard coal or lignite.

The stove in which the fire is never out.
The stove that saves its cost in fuel each winter.
The stove that lets no gas or smoke escape into the room.
The stove that gives you every atom of heat that is in your coal.
In fact, the only stove that is absolutely efficient—perfect in construction—perfect in operation.

We sell it under a broad guarantee to do all these things. COME IN AND SEE IT. YOU WILL BE DELIGHTED.

The first day of the American financial panic of 1857 fell on "the unlucky thirteenth" of October. On that day all the banks of New York City, save one, suspended specie payments, and their example was soon followed by practically all of the banks of the United States. The effects of the panic were soon felt in Canada and England, and the latter country was plunged into dire commercial depression, because of American failures. Although there had been periods of commercial and financial depression in the United States previous to 1857, the panic of that year was the first to involve the entire country. Only three banks in the whole United States paid cash throughout the panic, the Chemical Bank of New York, which earned the title of "Old Bullion" by successfully weathering the storm and refusing to join with the other institutions in sus-

Eldon, Mo.—"I was troubled with displacement, organic inflammation and female weakness. For two years I could not stand on my feet long at a time and I could not walk two blocks without enduring cutting and drawing pains down my right side which increased once a month. I have been at that time purple in the face and would walk the floor. I could not lie down or sit still sometimes for a day and a night at a time. I was nervous, had very little appetite, no ambition, melancholy, and often felt as though I had not a friend in the world.

"After I had tried most every female remedy first, without success, my mother-in-law advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so and gained in strength every day. I have now no trouble in any way and highly praise your medicine. It deserves itself."—Mrs. S. T. HURLEY, Eldon, Missouri.

The first day of the American financial panic of 1857 fell on "the unlucky thirteenth" of October. On that day all the banks of New York City, save one, suspended specie payments, and their example was soon followed by practically all of the banks of the United States. The effects of the panic were soon felt in Canada and England, and the latter country was plunged into dire commercial depression, because of American failures. Although there had been periods of commercial and financial depression in the United States previous to 1857, the panic of that year was the first to involve the entire country. Only three banks in the whole United States paid cash throughout the panic, the Chemical Bank of New York, which earned the title of "Old Bullion" by successfully weathering the storm and refusing to join with the other institutions in suspending payments. The other banks re-opened themselves later by depriving the Chemical Bank of clearing house privileges for several months. The panic was due to excessive land speculation, and caused 5,123 commercial failures with liabilities exceeding $300,000,000.

Eight years ago to-day Nicholas II., of Russia and Mutsuhito, of Japan, attached their imperial signatures to the treaty negotiated at Portsmouth, N. H., and the war between the two nations was formally ended.

Nippon, triumphantly victorious on land and sea, accepted terms of peace dictated by the country she had conquered, and, while she gained Korea, gave up half of Saghalien, relinquished her demand for indemnity, and, in fact, magnanimously yielded every point in dispute.

Much water has passed under the mill since the signing of the Portsmouth treaty. Russia's diplomatic victory at Portsmouth has been followed by many others. The czar is rapidly becoming all-powerful in Mongolia, while Japan's influence is being steadily developed in Manchuria.

China has become a republic. A new ruler has come to the throne of Japan—one who is declared to be frankly and openly Russophile. It is generally believed that Nicholas and Yoshihito have become allies in a movement for the dismemberment of China—that St. Petersburg and Tokio have entered into an agreement whereby Mongolia is to go to Russia and Manchuria to Japan.

"We are safe in prophesying," says the Japan Advertiser, "that the Chinese republic can reach a modus vivendi with its powerful neighbors only by reconciling itself to the loss of Mongolia, North and South Manchuria."

A recent dispatch to the London Daily Telegraph says: "Russia, having vainly requested China to restore order in the towns along the caravan routes in Western Mongolia, has formally occupied Koko and Tchougoutchak with a battalion of Cossacks. Russia thus places this region on the same footing as Unga." Russia's concern over the caravan routes is, of course, a mere excuse. But what of "the same footing as Unga?"

Unga is a "sacred city" in Northern Mongolia, the seat of Gheerzan, who modestly styles himself "the Living God." Just a year ago the month the representatives of the czar met the priests of the Living God of Mongolia in the sacred city and signed the treaty of Unga. By this remarkable treaty, and a subsequent protocol, all of Mongolia, with an area of over 500,000 square miles, becomes, for all commercial purposes, a part of Russia.

Although this assumption of Russian authority over Mongolia is of vital importance to British and American trade, it has practically passed unnoticed at London and Washington. Russia has already commenced to make good her occupancy by building a network of branches of the trans-Siberian railway into Northern Mongolia. Mongolia has been in rebellion against China for some time, and the punitive expeditions of Chinese troops only made the Mongolians more ready to accept Russian "protection." Russia now has a quarter of a million soldiers along the trans-Siberian railway, but it is hardly likely that China will attempt to stop the Russian invasion by force of arms.

While Japan and Russia are now friends and allies, animated by a common purpose—the loot of China—it is predicted that when their present purposes are accomplished the old enmity and bitterness will be revived, and that Russia, this time fully prepared, will go to war to wipe out the stain and disgrace of her previous defeat.

Eight Years After Treaty, Czar and Mikado Are Allies.

Eight years ago to-day Nicholas II., of Russia and Mutsuhito, of Japan, attached their imperial signatures to the treaty negotiated at Portsmouth, N. H., and the war between the two nations was formally ended.

Nippon, triumphantly victorious on land and sea, accepted terms of peace dictated by the country she had conquered, and, while she gained Korea, gave up half of Saghalien, relinquished her demand for indemnity, and, in fact, magnanimously yielded every point in dispute.

Much water has passed under the mill since the signing of the Portsmouth treaty. Russia's diplomatic victory at Portsmouth has been followed by many others. The czar is rapidly becoming all-powerful in Mongolia, while Japan's influence is being steadily developed in Manchuria.

China has become a republic. A new ruler has come to the throne of Japan—one who is declared to be frankly and openly Russophile. It is generally believed that Nicholas and Yoshihito have become allies in a movement for the dismemberment of China—that St. Petersburg and Tokio have entered into an agreement whereby Mongolia is to go to Russia and Manchuria to Japan.

"We are safe in prophesying," says the Japan Advertiser, "that the Chinese republic can reach a modus vivendi with its powerful neighbors only by reconciling itself to the loss of Mongolia, North and South Manchuria."

A recent dispatch to the London Daily Telegraph says: "Russia, having vainly requested China to restore order in the towns along the caravan routes in Western Mongolia, has formally occupied Koko and Tchougoutchak with a battalion of Cossacks. What are Peps?

Peps is the name bestowed upon a new scientific preparation put up in tablet or pastille form, which provides an entirely new and effective treatment for coughs, colds and lung and throat troubles generally.

Did it never occur to you as peculiar when you have a cough or a cold, or any chest trouble, you should apply medicine—not to your lungs, but to your stomach?

Look at it the other way round. Suppose you suffered from some stomach complaint—indigestion or ulceration. How strange you would think it if you were asked to take a medicine which had to be breathed in, and which went not to your stomach, but to your lungs and breathing passages?

There is no connection between the stomach and the lungs (see diagram below), and when for a cold or a cough or any chest complaint you take some medicine, such as liquid cough mixtures, syrups, lozenges, which go not to your lungs, but to your stomach, you are wasting time.

Peps—this newest remedy for coughs, colds, and lung troubles—goes to the lungs and breathing-tubes, direct. Peps are really pine fumes and certain highly beneficial medicinal extracts specially prepared by a new scientific process and then condensed into tablet form. It is like making a breathable gas solid!

You put a "Pep" on your tongue and let it dissolve. As it does so its healing essence it contains turns into vapor, and you BREATHE them direct to your lungs and air passages!

These healing essences pass down your breathing-tubes, bathing all the inflamed surfaces, which no other liquid or solid matter can ever reach, in health-giving pine fumes, and carrying health and healing wherever they penetrate.

These tissues strengthen, emaciated, pleasant fumes, so liberated from the dissolving Peps, are not only healing in their operation, they are antiseptic. They kill the germs of consumption, catarrh, and these many and varied throat and lung troubles so common to-day. Peps fumes—like the fumes from nature's Pine woods—get direct to the lungs and chest, and give instant relief to colds, tightness, bronchitis, etc. In short, Peps bring purest air to your lungs.

You have a nasty night cough? Take a Pep before going to bed—your cough will not trouble you! Your lungs are a little weak, and going from the warm house into the cold air outside makes you cough? Just before going out put a Pep in your mouth—there will be no coughing! Your throat feels "stuffed up," your chest feels tight, and your breathing troublesome? Peps will put matters right for you very quickly.

Peps, while gradually turning to vapor as soon as put into the mouth, will retain their healing essence indefinitely if kept dry. Each little Peps pastille is packed in an air-tight wrapping, which is easily removed, and they are packed in neat tin packet boxes. They are not sticky (the minister or public speaker can carry a few loose in the vest pocket), they do not spoil the appetite and ruin the digestion, like cough syrups and mixtures do; and they DO cure coughs, colds and lung trouble!

Just as the out-door treatment for consumption—the "breathing" treatment—is now admitted to be the only rational treatment, so the "Peps" treatment for colds and lung troubles is the only rational home treatment.

Peps cure catarrh, coughs, bronchitis, sore throat, tightness or swelling across the chest, difficulty in breathing, night cough, hoarseness, asthma, laryngitis, smoker's throat, etc. Best for children because free from opium, morphine, or any poison.

All druggists and stores sell Peps at 50c a box or 8 for $1.25. Should your dealer be out of stock, order direct (Post paid) from Peps Co., Toronto, or 32 Princess Street, Winnipeg.

FREE TRIAL.—The proprietors wish this great discovery to be widely appreciated, and have decided to offer a free trial packet to all persons who would like to test this unique remedy. Cut out this article, write across it the name of this paper, and mail it to Peps Co., Toronto, or 32 Princess Street, Winnipeg, enclosing 1 cent stamp to pay for return postage. A free trial packet of Peps will be mailed you by return. If you have a friend suffering from a cough, cold, or any throat or lung trouble, hand this on.

ARTISTIC.—Actor: Madam, how much are your apartments? Landlady: From a pound up. Actor: Madam, I am an actor. Landlady: Then it's a pound down.

SHAKESPEAREAN PARTS

HER FAVORITE ROLES

Miss Constance Collier Has Faced the Footlights Since She Was Five

"I commenced my stage career when I was five years old," said Miss Constance Collier this morning to a Times reporter who saw her at the Empress hotel. "That was as Pameblossom, in Midsummer Night's Dream. It was a 'walking-on' part, which was followed three years later by my first real speaking part. That was Puck. I loved it, and, curiously enough, it was the part that my mother, who was the adopted daughter of Samuel Phelps, the famous old actor, made her first appearance in."

"So, you see, I may say that I have been in Shakespeare almost all my life. I was brought up on it, and prefer it to anything else, although," added this gifted English actress when reminded of her distinguished achievement in other roles, "there are other parts that I like playing, too."

"How did I come to His Majesty's?" I was working there in a very small part, when one day Sir Beerbohm Tree sent for me and asked me if I had ever done a long blank verse part. I said no, but told him I should love to read it over to him. The play they were staging was Ulysses, and the part he had in mind was Minerva. At first he did not think I could do it, but told me to go and watch the rehearsal the next afternoon. I did, and after it was over I went down and asked him to let me try to read it. He did not suggest a promise of giving it to me when he consented. But I went up and read the lines, waiting with my head down over I had finished, frightened that I might see the others laughing at my way of doing it. But it seemed to please him, and he told me I could take the part."

"That was seven years ago," explained Miss Collier, "and I have been in His Majesty's ever since. Viola, Portia, Cleopatra, almost all the Shakespearean plays I have acted in. It is such a stimulus to work with actors of the imagination and genius of Sir Beerbohm Tree and Mr. Faversham."

"How often have you played the royal command?" the interviewer asked.

"Six times," she replied with apparent pleasure in recalling the occasions. "We were commanded by the German Emperor to play for ten days in Germany, this being a singular honor, as never before had an English company received the royal 'command' to Germany. The Emperor seemed delighted, and on the last night sent for us to go to speak to him, and we took the last call from the royal box."

Miss Collier at this point sent for the bracelet which His Imperial Majesty presented to her as a memento of their German visit, and presently the beautiful ornament of deep gold links each set with a beautiful sapphire, and with a deep shield of diamonds and sapphires, in the form of the royal eagle surmounted by the crown, was brought.

"We were royally entertained during the whole of our stay in Germany," continued the lady to whom the distinction had been accorded. "Count van Hussen and Prince Saturn were put in charge of us, and they took us everywhere in carriages placed at our disposal by the Emperor, and the greatest courtesy and appreciation was shown us both in the theatre and out of it."

Other commands? As a child I went to Sandringham to play in a command performance before Queen Victoria; three times I played in command performances for King Edward; and the sixth time I played was at the gala performance at His Majesty's for King George. This last occasion was a most wonderful one, and I do not remember ever having seen such a brilliant gathering in any theatre, the men all wearing knee-breeches and the ladies in their most brilliant jewels and gowns."

Recalling some of the more average performances in which she has taken part, Miss Collier told how, on the opening night of "Oliver Twist," a play in which she made a tremendous sensation as Nancy Sykes, Dickens' sister-in-law, an old lady then 88 years of age, was present, and was among those who went back to see the performance. Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, always a tremendous admirer of Dickens, was also present to see the play on that occasion, and Miss Collier afterwards received a letter of glowing appreciation and praise which she still prizes among her most treasured souvenirs of first nights.

"They talk of Peace Conference," pouted the actress, "but finer than any peace conference, in that it brings together with absolute harmony of ideas people from all over the world, is the Stratford-on-Avon Shakespeare festival. Ambassadors from Germany, France, Spain, America, almost everywhere, come to his birthplace. There are little stations at intervals where these stand, little flags at half-mast waiting until the signal is given. Then the ambassadors run up the flags, a procession is formed, and everyone marches from the birthplace of the Bard of Avon to the church, where a little ceremony is performed. From the church the procession goes past the grave, flung slowly by so that each person can drop his handful of flowers as he passes. In order that there shall be no distinction between the tribute of the lowest and the highest, everyone is allowed just one handful of white flowers. When it is all over, there is a big pyramid of blossoms and this takes place every year."

"In the evening," added Miss Collier with romantic appreciation, "we give his plays in the theatre, and between the acts—just imagine—the beauty and appropriateness of it all—we go out on the Avon just as Shakespeare himself probably saw the waters."

Miss Collier is a great exponent of the idea of a national theatre, and says that the hope of those who uphold the scheme in England may shortly be realized, the sum of £50,000 already having been collected toward that end. She would like to see a similar movement afoot in this country, as it is only by some such means that the best plays can be brought to all the people.

Although she played in America as long ago as 1907, when she appeared in Oliver Twist with Nat Goodwin, she had not previous to her present tour been further west than Chicago, and this morning expressed her delight and surprise at the position and beauty of Victoria. The magnificent view of the Olympics as their vessel passed the entrance to the Inner Harbour seems to have impressed her particularly, as she said that never before had she seen such wonderful tinting and lights in any mountains as danced at that moment on the serrated ridges of the peaks to the south of the Straits.

FORT FRASER IS HOPE OF PROVINCE

British Columbia is Becoming Recognized as Agricultural Centre

The great problem which faces the public men of British Columbia to-day is to find the best methods of placing settlers upon the splendid arable lands of British Columbia. It is a problem to which careful consideration is being given and although at first the question seemed to present serious difficulties, closer investigation showed that there was a way out. The solution is to be found in those great areas of the interior of which Fort Fraser is the centre. In that country there are great plateaus and valleys which offer every inducement to the settler. Moreover, these areas are easy of access, the land is reasonable in price and with Fort Fraser as the hub the settler finds a market for his products and is within comfortable reach of a town at which he can obtain his supplies.

It is recognized that British Columbia has not made progress in agriculture in proportion to her development and along other lines. While the great bulk of immigration to the northwest provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan has come from the United States, the immigration to British Columbia has been chiefly confined to the cities. The recent census shows this conclusively. In the ten years from 1901 to 1911, 104,000 settlers came to British Columbia, and out of these the abnormally large proportion of 134,000 were residents of already populous centres. The cities and towns of this province therefore absorbed nearly all the immigration of ten years. Fishing, lumbering and mining attracted a fair number but agriculture seemed to be the last thing thought of.

No doubt this state of affairs was brought about by the idea which has been uppermost in the minds of people not familiar with the province that British Columbia is only good for mining, lumbering and fishing. One result of this mistaken theory has been to send up the cost of living for British Columbia has been forced to import most of her food products. It is therefore a matter for congratulation that at last this province is coming into her own. At last it is recognized and accepted that in British Columbia there are areas available for cultivation, which, when brought under cultivation, will amply satisfy the needs of the country. With the British Columbia growing her own vegetables, raising her own cattle and sheep and bringing on the grain production, there is hope ahead.

It is only within recent months that this phase of British Columbia development has begun to be seriously discussed. The Nechaco Valley has become known and it is to this section of the province that those who have the interests of the country at heart are turning. Official Bulletin No. 22, published by the authority of the Legislative Assembly, gives the area of the Nechaco lands as 230,000 acres. Then there are other large areas which are geographically tributary to the Nechaco Valley and, without doubt, this part of British Columbia is destined to become famous for agriculture.

It has already been demonstrated that this country can grow produce the equal, and the superior, to the products of any other section of Canada. Pioneers in the Nechaco have wrought wonders and the vegetable grown in these first ranches have set a standard which must be most encouraging to those who are now going in.

The trend of the tide is towards the Fort Fraser country and those who have studied the situation are convinced that this garden of the interior will become one of the most fruitful agricultural countries in the world.

Makes Hairy Growths Vanish From the Skin

(Aids to Beauty.)

It is now such an easy matter to banish hair not wanted that no woman need longer tolerate superfluous growths on chin, lip or cheek. A thick paste made with a little powdered delatone and water and spread on the hairy surface 2 minutes, then rubbed off, takes the hairs with it, and after it is washed to remove the remaining delatone, it will be free from spot or blemish. To avoid disappointment, get the delatone in an original package.

URGED TO ATTEND COMMISSION SITTINGS

The Committee on Women's Wages Reported at Meeting of Local Council of Women

The Local Council of Women met yesterday afternoon in the Y. W. C. A. room, Mrs. Donald, in the absence of the president, Miss Crease, presiding, and a large attendance, including several new members, being present.

The convenors of the various committees reported, Mrs. Justin Gilbert, who reported for the committee appointed to look into the matter of wages and conditions in those places where women and girls are employed in the city, reading a very concise and detailed statement of the facts connected with this subject. Mrs. Wm. Grant moved that the committee should attend the session of the provincial labor commission in the parliamentary buildings on October 22 at 10 a.m., and also suggested that as many members of the Local Council of Women as possible should make a point of being present at the sittings of the commission. Mrs. Hanington also strongly endorsed the idea of attending the sittings.

Mrs. Wm. Grant called attention to the meaning of the increased street car fares in the city, and said that the hours for cheap fares should be extended to 9 a.m. so that employees in stores and offices might gain the benefit of these. A resolution was drawn up and the secretary was instructed to write to the Vancouver Local Council asking what steps they had taken on the matter. Mrs. Gordon and Mrs. Burns being appointed a committee of two to act with the Vancouver Local Council in approaching the railway company.

With respect to the establishment of a maternity hospital in the city, Mrs. Hay reported that arrangements had been made, through Dr. Hall, medical health officer, for the accommodation of maternity cases at the Vancouver street private hospital, when it was impossible to get attention for these at home. Mrs. Hanington reported that the city had promised to contribute $100 out of the $175 which it would cost to support a crèche, and that 16 children were waiting to make use of the crèche.

Mrs. Hay pointed out that in Australia mothers' pensions were secured under the Infants' Protection Act, and this was followed by a resolution being moved and carried asking that the matter of pensions should be taken up with other local councils for the purpose of bringing the matter before the legislature at its next session.

The secretary read a letter during the afternoon from the Cowichan Women's Institute which told of the establishment of a club room at Duncan for members of the institute.

Other business during the afternoon included the passing of a report of the Carnival Tea Room read by Miss Leitch; the appointment of Mrs. Hay as convener of the committee on public health; and her appointment also as convener of a committee to get full particulars of a scheme for the establishment of public swimming baths. The council was reminded by Mrs. Donald, before adjourning, that the date of the annual meeting would be February. Mrs. Adams informed the meeting that the mayor and city council had set aside a sum to entertain the Portola girls who are to arrive in the city to-morrow, and a committee of two to act with the Vancouver Local Council in approaching the railway company.

TO-DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

On this day in the year 1844 there was elected to the assembly of United Canada a young barrister of Kingston, who had won notice a few years earlier by his brilliant, though unsuccessful, defence of that luckless and too-active "sympathizer" with the Canadian rebels of 1837-38, the Poole, Von Schultz. The name of the new member, John Alexander Macdonald, was destined throughout more than half a century to grow increasingly familiar to every one interested in Canada and its affairs. In 1846 he took office in the Conservative ministry of William Henry Deane and was the leader of his party for many a year of turmoil before Confederation, and finally he has been called "the Father." An adept at keeping his following together and loyal, he was the first prime minister of the Dominion. This position he held, save for a break of about five years, until his death in 1891. He introduced the system of protection to Canadian industries which he boldly called "the National Policy." He services to the Dominion are, of necessity, estimated at a very different value by politicians of different schools, but even his opponents acknowledge his "devotion to Canada's welfare, Canada's advancement and Canada's glory."

Mr. Edmund Walker, the distinguished Canadian financier, was born in Seneca township, Haldimand county, Ont., sixty-five years ago to-day. He has been connected with the banking business for over half a century, as he was only thirteen when he left school to begin his business career in the banking office of his uncle, J. W. Morton, of Hamilton. It was in Hamilton that he met Mary Alexander, who became his wife in 1874. He entered the employment of the Canadian Bank of Commerce in 1868, in 1888 became general manager, and in 1907 the president of the institution. He was knighted in 1910, and has been the recipient of many other honors from universities and banking, patriotic and learned societies, among many other public works, he founded the Champlain Society for publishing rare works on Canadian history. The eminent banker was christened Byron Edmund, but the Byrons is silent.

October 14 is the birthday of the Rev. Dr. R. M. Somerville, for thirty-seven years a leader of the Scotch Covenanters in New York, at Grand Pre, N. S., 1837. Dr. Somerville was the son of the minister of a small congregation of Scotch Covenanters in the village celebrated by Longfellow. After graduating from Queen's College, Belfast, he took up his father's work at Grand Pre, going to New York in 1875.

To-day is the anniversary of the terrible Quebec fire of 1866, when 2,500

THE HUMAN PROCESSION

There is quite a stretch of wet weather and dry land between London, England, and Chicago, Cook county, Illinois. Also, there is a considerable chasm between the occupation of hawking newspapers and blacking boots, and that of publishing a great newspaper. James Keeley has bridged both gulfs, and he is still a young man, for to-day is his forty-sixth birthday.

James Keeley is the publisher, general manager and vice president of the Chicago Tribune, and that journal is "The World's Greatest Newspaper." It says so itself, right on the first page, every day in the week. Mr. Keeley was born on Oct. 14, 1867, in the White-chapel district of London, which is far from being the wealthiest and most exclusive section of the world's metropolis. There, young Keeley attended school, blacked boots and sold papers. He had many rivals in the business, but by the might of his fists he speedily reduced them to subservience, and reigned as the king of the Whitechapel newsies.

At sixteen Keeley decided to emigrate to America. With him to decide was to act. He found a stowaway agent who had a shipwreck ticket to Leavenworth, Kan. Tickets to Leavenworth, Kan., were a drug on the London market just then, and Keeley got the transportation at a cut price. Arriving in the Kansas city, the young Londoner refused to be cast down by his inability to get a job as a cowboy, a scout or a slayer of Indians. He took to the streets, selling papers, peanuts, popcorn and other small merchandise, and added to his income by doing odd jobs for the army officers at Fort Leavenworth. He thought of becoming a soldier, but he was a born fighter, and he discarded the idea of a military career as being too precarious.

When Leavenworth pulled on the young soldier of fortune, he booted it to Kansas City. He got a job as carrier for the Kansas City Journal. His route was in the suburb of Wyandotte, and Keeley began sending in news from that section. He had the special olfactory sense which enabled him to smell news while still afar off, and while his first "copy" was crudely written, he soon improved his style, and became one of the stars of the Journal's city room.

After some time as an itinerant reporter, during which period he worked his way up to city editor on papers in Louisville and Memphis, Keeley went to Chicago. It was about twenty years ago that he began his triumphant career in the Windy City as a reporter on the Chicago Tribune. He quickly made a hit with the city editor of the Tribune, although that gentleman was doubtless very careful to keep the fact to himself. He was given many big assignments both in and out of Chicago, and turned in more beats than any other man in the office. He was soon promoted from reporter to copy manager, then to night city editor, and city editor. In 1898 President Patterson, of the Tribune, called Keeley into his office and remarked, "The Tribune needs a new managing editor. You are it." And Keeley was "it," from the word go. If the Chicago Tribune is the world's greatest newspaper, as it modestly admits, Mr. Keeley is the world's greatest editor. Maybe Keeley is great in spite of his early environment; and, again, maybe he is great because of it.

FAVERSHAM SUPERB IN JULIUS CAESAR

Shakespeare's Greatest Historical Tragedy Presented to a Crowded House

With great talent as an actor, William Faversham has a genius for stage mounting and direction, and once again he has demonstrated this in his production of Julius Caesar, now a twelvemonth old, which Victorians crowded the Victoria Theatre last night to see.

What strikes one is the splendid unity of the production as Mr. Faversham makes it, and the air of reality which pervades it.

Mr. Faversham plays Marc Antony. It is a characteristic of this actor, in contradistinction to so many stars, that he does not seize upon the star part, thus avoiding the rock upon which many a play has been wrecked.

It is a pity that so little falls to Antony's share in the lines. The opportunities of the part are slight, but such as they are Mr. Faversham seizes them and by his great talents makes them to shine.

His voice, though pleasant, is naturally husky and rather lacks range and variety, but his enunciation is perfect, his sense of the unities complete and his conception of the character admirable.

He gives a more youthful Antony than players have been wont to see, young, gallant and fired with ardor, eloquent and passionate when needed be, but on the whole temperate and restrained. He plays on the passions of the crowd in the forum as a musician would on an instrument.

The political craftiness of the orator is strikingly brought out both by the reading Mr. Faversham gives the speech and by the stage management of the mob. His references to the honor of Brutus and the other conspirators are not uttered with the emphasized sarcasm given them by other Antonys, but in a quiet, convincing, conversational tone. It is no concession to a crowd of men and women, but a calm, rational talk to fellow-citizens. Not by any account contempt but by the oft-iterated statement, almost like a refrain, he insinuates into the minds of the mob the conviction that Caesar was their friend and that in compassing his end the conspirators have left honor behind.

The stolid Brutus, as Shakespeare created the character, and as Mr. MacLean interprets it, is the real hero in Julius Caesar. Mr. MacLean has been a player of Shakespearean tragic roles for many years, and brings to the delineation of Brutus all the resources of a well-grounded art. In his features, voice and action, communication of character and emotion is amply equipped. His resonant tones, excellent elocution and strong, dignified carriage fit the part of the great conspirator, that man of generous temper and lofty feeling, of pure patriotic purpose. He conceived the part as Mr. MacLean's, and following the text given the man, and not Caesar for the state's sake—"as sacrificer, not as butcher"—but his characterization is virile and modern and thoroughly in keeping with the tone of Mr. Faversham's revival. Majesty clinging about this noblest Roman of them all as Mr. MacLean presents him, and shows him fearful of the conditions of Caesar and yet deeply attached to the emperor, for all he is and all he has done for Rome.

The softer side of Brutus' nature is well portrayed in the tender play with his daughter while Caesar is expressing his distrust of Caesar, and in the touching display of innate kindness shown to his wearied serving lad on the eve of Philippi. Mr. MacLean's contribution to the great success of Mr. Faversham's revival cannot be exaggerated. It is several years since he played the blunt and earnest part of Modjeska, but he is still remembered by many.

Cassius was played by Ernest Rowan, who makes that crafty old politician a little more human than some who have essayed the role. He is perhaps too young of face, although gray-haired, and as the elder brother of Brutus, playing opposite Mr. MacLean, this is noticeable. In his action, however, he displays sincerity and strength, a trifle marred by his tendency to read the lines more in the fashion of an older generation of actors than the present. Mr. Rowan was a year ago with Miss Maude Adams, when he played the pantomimic part of the Magpie in Chinatown.

More than a word of praise is due Arthur Elliott for his Casca. Mr. Elliott, also, is a widely-experienced Shakespearean actor, who has spent better part of two decades with the leading exponents of the bard's works. He plays the blunt, explosive republican to the letter, in a make-up that is excellently conceived. Not once does he deviate a hair from the interpretation, and in his minor role he ranks with the greater artists as one of the causes for the success of the performance.

Thomas Tracy acts Caesar, another of the lean parts in the play, with a sense of the character, and the other male roles are satisfactorily filled.

Miss Constance Collier plays Portia, the same role she took in Beerholm Tree's revival of the play some years ago. There are probably not one hundred lines falling to Portia in the play, either as written or acted, but that Shakespeare did not consider her one of his lesser heroines is shown by his putting into the mouth of Bassanio the statement that she of Belmont was "nothing undervalued to Cato's daughter, Brutus' Portia." Miss Collier is a beautiful woman, of a dark and clear Semitic type, and an actress with a wealth of ability and possessing a voice of wonderful richness and sweetness.

She reveals her talents as she pleads in wisely solitude with Brutus in the garden in the early morning hours to be allowed to share the secret that has robbed him of sleep, and again in the streets scene with the mad Lucius, which Mr. Faversham has so ably supported. One has to regret that her role was so slight.

Miss Jane Wheatley, who has been seen here before in Mr. Faversham's company, as Calpurnia, wins sympathy for the wife and widow of Caesar by her acting of her forebodings and her grief, even more than by her delivery of the few lines that fall to her. An effective curtain is given to the second act by her entry in black draperies as she makes her way to the side of her murdered husband in the senate.

Miss Elsie Oldham as the mad Lucius, the faithful servant of Brutus, is excellent in every way.

The scenic investiture of the play and its costuming are worthy of the great historical tragedy, worthy of this production of it. It is noticeable that Mr. Faversham has begun to adopt the newer German methods of scene which Reinhardt has created and expanded in the Deutsche Theatre in Berlin, and which it is understood he will further adopt in his proposed revivals of Othello, Hamlet and Romeo and Juliet. Reinhardt depends on imagination and suggestion for his effects, and the simple setting of Brutus' garden which Mr. Faversham has adopted shows how excellent a method it is for the classic drama.

At all, the Faversham production of Julius Caesar will long be remembered in Victoria.

Social Service Commission Deals With Reports of Committees; Pensions

Bishop Macdonald presided at the meeting of the Social Service Commission yesterday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A., when a great number of reports were read and a considerable amount of business discussed. The report of the committee on women and children, which was read by Rev. Dr. Clay, showed that some progress was being made in the discussion of the question of providing pensions for widows and dependent mothers with small children. Dr. Clay also reported that a joint committee of the Social Service Commission and the local council of women had waited on the finance committee of the city council asking for support for the public creche or day-nursery for the city.

Several important matters were brought forward by the committee on capital and labor, of which Rev. Dr. Scott is convener, one of which had reference to the unemployed in the city and the consequent distress which accrued to the families of wage earners.

A committee was appointed and empowered to make further investigation of the actual condition and number of unemployed in Victoria, and an appeal was made to public bodies, and ministers for any information they might have with regard to the situation. Such information should be forwarded to the secretary of the Social Service Commission, Rev. Wm. Stevenson.

Another report dealt with the question of "seasonal" labor in Canada, and the committee on this matter was empowered to prepare a resolution to be forwarded to the department of labor at Ottawa. It was suggested that some of the difficulties in connection with the problem of how to find permanent employment for men such as loggers, harvesters, etc., who find work only at certain times of the year, might be overcome by the formation of labor bureaus and the distribution of laborers from one part of the country to the other, as conditions demand.

The committee reported that the matter of the labor troubles on the Island had received considerable study and consideration, but that they had been unable to formulate any plan of action upon which they could work at present.

The committee on delinquents submitted its report, in which they earnestly endorsed the presentment of the grand jury at the assizes on the deplorable state of the cells at the City Jail.

During the sitting of the commission an important suggestion was introduced by Rev. Mr. MacLean, this being a proposal to enlarge the conditions of membership so as to include laymen to the commission. The matter was, however, left over until another meeting.

Bishop Roper, who was to have read a paper at the meeting, was unable to be present, and this will be given at one of the later meetings of the commission.

At its meeting last evening in the old Congregational church the Social Service League elected officers for the ensuing six months as follows: President, Phil. J. Smith; vice-president, Miss A. Miller (former president); secretary, Mrs. A. Clayton; treasurer, Mr. E. Willits; management committee, Mrs. Gilmore, Mrs. Todd, Mrs. Butler, Miss Thompson, Miss Croft, Mrs. Lynch, Mr. Cohen, Mr. Tait, Mr. Llewellyn and Mr. Smart.

There was a large attendance, and the programme drawn up for the various meetings of the winter season was read, with enthusiasm, while committees of five members each, were elected to the dramatic, glee club, orchestra, and literary and debating committees to see to the carrying out of the arrangements prepared for the winter.

In order to avoid confusion with the Social Service Commission the meeting decided to substitute the word club for league in the constitution, so that the organization in the future will be known as the Social Service Club.

The following is the programme which was drawn up last evening, and which will be carried out during the next few months: Dec. 20, hypnotic exhibition and concert; Oct. 27, Hallowe'en masquerade and dance; Nov. 1, first series whist tourney; Nov. 10, address, "Mankind in the Making," Mr. G. E. Winkler; Nov. 17, phrenological exhibition and concert; Nov. 24, debate, "Will Woman Suffrage Remove Economic Problems?" Dec. 1, whist tourney; Dec. 8, minstrel entertainment by the Smoky Mokes; Dec. 15, debate on single tax; Dec. 22, Christmas party; Dec. 29, address, Rev. Wm. Stevenson; Jan. 5, third whist tourney; Jan. 12, mock parliament, etc.; Jan. 19, dramatic entertainment by amateurs of club; Jan. 26, social and dance; Feb. 2, whist tourney; Feb. 9, mock parliament, "Female Suffrage Recognized?" Feb. 16, valentine masquerade and dance; Feb. 23, debate on militarism; March 2, whist tourney; March 9, dramatic entertainment; March 16, social and dance; April 6, whist tourney; April 13, mock initiation into fraternalism; April 20, debate on Representative Government; April 27, competitive entertainment; May 4, business meeting and election of officers; May 11, military five hundred; and May 18, farewell concert and dance and organization of summer basket picnics.

The meetings are for the purpose of extending the hand of welcome to those who find themselves in a new land far from old associations and their family circle, and for the purpose of providing entertainment and instruction for the members. The club is non-sectarian and non-partisan, and meetings are held every Monday evening at the Progressive Thought Temple, Pandora street. No restriction other than good behavior is imposed on members.

"Life's Shop Window" at the Princess Theatre is Played to Large Audience.

"Life's Shop Window," which is being played at the Princess theatre, deals with one of the vital problems of the day, and a well-filled house witnessed the unravelling of the story last evening. Considerable care had been given to the scenic effects, and the third act particularly, which showed an Arizona forest, was very fine. Miss Page, as a young country girl who later appeared as wife and mother, showed some splendid talent, and Kate Bristow, a woman big-hearted enough to attempt to save another woman from a fate she herself had encountered, was cleverly acted by Miss Graham. Miss Mullaly, who during the course of the play grew from childhood to girlhood, made a charming picture. Other strong parts were taken by Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Horn, the latter in the role of Indian.

Mrs. A. W. Currie will not receive to-morrow, but will be at home on the first and third Wednesdays in November.

The examination of Robert Hetherington in the Bankers' Trust case today in the assize court occupied much less time than it was expected it would. His examination and cross-examination was over by half-past twelve. He retold the story of his taking stock in the company and the reasons why he became suspicious of the way things were going up to the time he laid his information against Cook, Hearn and O'Connor.

JUDICIAL INQUIRY

WILL BE SOUGHT

Ald. Humber Retains Seat on Council Pending Investigation of Bribery Charges

All the acts of the Victoria city council in the last three years are to be submitted to a judge, possibly a judge of the Supreme court, as a result of a decision reached last evening by the city council.

The council also determined to allow Alderman Humber to retain his seat in the council until the report of the inquiry is presented, in spite of the refusal of the alderman to qualify or apologise for his remarks of October 6 that some of the aldermen were "in a ring" in connection with contracts.

There was a considerable discussion last evening when the subject came up in a crowded council chamber. The mayor introduced the subject to the council when asking what action should be taken with regard to Alderman Humber's attitude at the previous meeting. His worship explained that the city solicitor's opinion fully endorsed the position he took up on Friday, that the conduct of the meeting lay exclusively with the mayor and not with the council.

Alderman Humber immediately renewed his statements made during the investigation that a ring existed.

Aldermen Porter and Fullerton both objected to the alderman being removed from his seat if a further investigation was to be held.

Alderman Dilworth also opposed the proposal to press for the alderman's removal.

For a judicial inquiry Alderman Meston formally moved a motion, which Alderman McNeill seconded.

Alderman Gleason considered that the right way would be by application to the lieutenant-governor in council for reference of the whole matter to a judge of the Supreme court.

Alderman Cuthbert asked for an amendment to be accepted extending the ground of the inquiry over three years.

The mayor believed they should limit the inquiry to some definite period, though so far as he was concerned there was no doubt that the judge could investigate the actions of the council since 1906.

Alderman Humber declared for a limit of three years.

Alderman Gleason did not think any good purpose would be served by spreading the inquiry over a long term of years, all those that he had been in the council for instance.

The resolution of Alderman Meston was then carried, as was also a proposal to continue Alderman Humber in his seat till the report is received.

The council left the whole question of taking the necessary steps with the city solicitor. Application will be made for a judge to sit at the inquiry.
